'CAN'T ACCEPT BID'

Refusal Leads Politicos to Believe Garner Will Enter Ohio's Primary.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Declaring "acceptance would be subterfuge," Senator Donahey refused today to be Ohio's favorite son candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The senator had been endorsed for the nomination by the state central and executive committees which, however, went on record as favoring renomination of President Roosevelt if Mr. Roosevelt desires it.

"I appreciate the honor tendered me by the Democratic executive and central committee but in good conscience I am compelled to reject same," Donahey said in a statement.

Some advocates of a third term had been hopeful Donahey would run as a favorite son, and then, if Mr. Roosevelt were a candidate again, that the Ohio delegation would be turned over to the chief executive.

Donahey

Spokesmen for Vice President Garner have indicated that he might enter his name in the Ohio primary in May if Donahey were not a candidate.

"By removing myself from the picture," Donahey's statement continued, "no embarrassment need attach to any bona fide candidate for president who desires to file in Ohio, nor to the controlling committees who endorsed the president for a third term at their meeting."

INSPECTS CANAL

Roosevelt Sees Defenses, Goes on Fishing Jaunt Today.

ABOARD THE DESTROYER LANG—(U.P.)—President Roosevelt moved south into the Pacific aboard the cruiser Tuscaloosa today after an inspection of the Canal Zone's Atlantic defenses and discussing "contemplated improvements" with military and civilian officials.

It was believed he planned to fish near the Pearl islands, 40 miles off Balboa.

The president was impressed with the reinforcement of France field with heavy bombers. His inspection tour started soon after he arrived at the Atlantic entrance yesterday morning. He indicated that he would inspect the Pacific defenses on his return.

The major "contemplated improvement" is the $277,000,000 auxiliary lock system to provide the nation's "life line" with an emergency passageway in event the present dual locks are damaged.

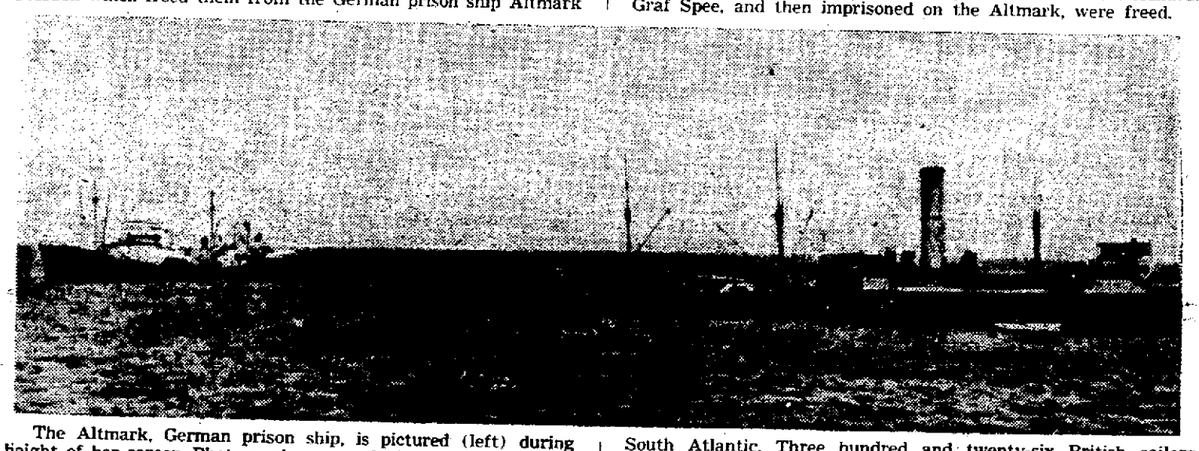
Seamen and Ship That Figured In Amazing War Episode

Gaunt and tattered, these British sailors cheer with joy as they are brought to Leith, Scotland by the British destroyer Cossack which freed them from the German prison ship Altmark after a battle in Norwegian territorial waters at Josingfjord. Three hundred and twenty-six British sailors, who had been taken from ships captured and sunk by the German raider Admiral Graf Spee, and then imprisoned on the Altmark, were freed.



The Altmark, German prison ship, is pictured (left) during height of her career. Photograph was made from deck of the ill-fated Graf Spee as crew from the captured British freighter, Huntsman, was transferred to the Altmark somewhere in the South Atlantic. Three hundred and twenty-six British sailors from ships captured by the Graf Spee, who had been prisoners aboard the Altmark, were freed when British destroyers forced her aground in Norwegian territorial waters after a battle.

POLICE HUNTING MISSING GIRL, 16

Child Disappears From Home Sunday; Broadcast Sent to Three States.

Police in three states today were asked to search for a 16-year-old Mansfield girl who has been missing from her home here since yesterday afternoon.

A. L. Burger, 70 Arthur avenue, told police yesterday that his daughter, Catherine, had left home and was believed to be enroute either to West Virginia or Kentucky with a 21-year-old youth whom she planned to marry.

Mansfield police broadcast a radio message to state authorities and notified West Virginia and Kentucky police to pick up the girl if they find her.

Meanwhile two other youths, reported missing from their homes late Saturday were being held by Galion police for Richland county juvenile authorities.

They were Thomas Restille, 76 Lily street and James Griffith, 778 West Fourth street, who disappeared Saturday morning.

County probation officers were to return them to Mansfield this afternoon.

URGES REVISION OF WAGE LAWS

Taft Says Hour Regulations Should Be Abandoned.

SWARTHMORE, Pa. — (AP) — Modification of the wage-hour act so that it may become a real minimum wage law was advocated by Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio candidate for the Republican nomination for president, in an address last night at Swarthmore college.

He urged the real minimum wage law "to protect employes against oppression where normal processes of collective bargaining are ineffective."

He also said the hour regulation should be abandoned "except where it involves injury to health or lack of time for recreation."

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Leo P. Johnson of Rocky river submitted for approval of the secretary of state today petitions as a Republican candidate for the state auditor nomination at the May 14 primary.

Work Underway At Last On Long-Delayed W. Fourth Job

Ending a 10-year controversy between city and state officials, and a threatened law suit by property owners, preliminary work was started today on the reconstruction of West Fourth street.

A crew of WPA workmen began the replacement of water lines on the street this morning, the first step on the $100,000 project which is expected to be completed this summer.

The city and state-sponsored government job includes the resurfacing of the street from North Diamond street to Linden road. Work of replacing sections of water mains and service lines must be completed before paving is started.

City Engineer W. C. Statler said that the workmen today began the job of laying the new service lines, 95 per cent of which will be replaced between Main street and Linden road. New copper tubing is being put down in place of the galvanized pipe now serving the properties.

Statler said that work on putting down the new water mains was held up for the delivery of the new pipe. It is expected in about three weeks.

Construction of the new lines will be started when the pipe arrives. It is expected that work will begin at Main street and proceed west, closing a block section at a time, Statler explained.

Traffic will be detoured over West Fifth and West Third street, during the construction period.

When completed the state will put down a 22-foot center driving lane of brick with new six-foot concrete parking lanes on either side.

Murray D. Shaffer, division highway engineer at Ashland said the state hoped to have the street open for through traffic before fall.

RIVER RISING

CINCINNATI — (U.P.) — U. S. Meteorologist W. C. Devereaux today predicted that the rising Ohio river would reach a crest of 34 or 35 feet here Tuesday.

The river stage today was 33.2 feet, a rise of 4.2 feet in 24 hours. The rate of rise had diminished, Devereaux said. Flood stage is 52 feet here. There was believed to be little immediate danger of a flood.

TRIAL STARTED

Athens County Commissioners Face Bribe Charges Today.

ATHENS, O. — (INS) — Thirty-three witnesses have been subpenaed and a panel of 53 prospective jurors was summoned to court today for the trial of Ira Whitmore and Walter MacCombs, Athens county commissioners charged with solicitation and acceptance of bribes.

DENY MURDER

Woman, 2 Youths Plead Not Guilty in Hammer Death.

BELLEFONTAINE, O.— (AP)—A woman and two youths pleaded innocent today to indictments charging first degree murder in the hammer slaying Feb. 1 of Fred Jenkins, Huntsville telegrapher.

Mrs. Minnie Jenkins, widow of the slain man, and her son Merlin, 18, waived a jury trial and asked that their case be heard by a three-judge court. Common Pleas Judge Lawrence Zupp set the woman's trial for March 18, Merlin's for March 19.

Donald Slater, 18-year-old employe at a lunchroom operated by Mrs. Jenkins, will be tried March 20, probably by a jury.

All three were returned to jail without bail.

Prosecutor Ewing Smith said that Slater confessed beating Jenkins to death because he abused the Jenkins family.

GOES FREE IN KNIFE MURDER

Wife of Slain Man Stabbed in Self Defense, Marriott, Sheriff Decide.

Mrs. Hattie Bowerman, 33, colored, who confessed fatally stabbing her husband, Lester Bowerman, 41, during an altercation at their home here Saturday night, is scheduled to walk out of the county jail a free woman this afternoon or tomorrow.

Prosecutor G. W. Marriott said this afternoon that he was convinced she stabbed Bowerman in self defense and he had decided not to file a charge against her.

Sheriff E. P. Long and Coroner Hugh Winbigler also declined to file charges against her, asserting that everything indicated Mrs. Bowerman inflicted the fatal wounds while her husband was choking her. There were no witnesses to the stabbing.

"After hearing the coroner's

MAE WINS BOUT

Gets Court Permission To Sue Prince Mdivani For Support.

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Winning the first step in her campaign to regain possession of their 13-year-old son, Mae Murray, star of the silent screen, today had court permission to sue her former husband, Prince David Mdivani, for support.

Recently a New York court refused to force Bessie Cunning of Albany, who has been keeping the boy, Koran David Mdivani, to turn him over to his mother until a suitable home existed.

'Honest John' Whose Dozen Was 13, Dies Near Willard

WILLARD — Oscar W. Howell, 81, known throughout this section as "Honest John," died today in Municipal hospital. He had been ill only a few days.

"Honest John" for many years had lived alone in a tiny one-room house on Route 224 in New Haven township. His house was always immaculate, and in the summer carefully-tended flowers encircled it in a gay cloak of color.

He made his living by raising and selling vegetables at a roadside stand. He came by the name of "Honest John" through his practice of always giving 13 ears of corn to the dozen and being equally generous in other measurements.

His body was taken to Clyde, his birthplace, where his only survivor, a daughter, Nellie, resides. Burial will be there but funeral arrangements were incomplete today.

NORTHERN OHIO STRUGGLES OUT OF SLUSH GRIP

FOUR HURT IN CAR SKID

Truck Stalls on Grade, Piles Up 15 Cars Behind It; More Snow Due.

The Mansfield area and other sections of northern and eastern Ohio were working today to break the grip of a snow and slush storm that stalled traffic and damaged power lines.

Roads were open but dangerous in Richland county while in Mansfield automobiles and pedestrians splashed through about three inches of slush that resulted from a mixture of rain and wet snow.

The city's snow-fighting forces were called into service early last night when the heavy wet snow threatened to halt traffic in Mansfield. Workers spread salt on slippery grades where trucks and cars stalled and hauled the snow out of the business district.

Four Hurt in Skid.

Four persons were injured last night on route 30-S near Ontario when a car skidded on the ice and struck a guard rail, and a number of minor collisions were reported in the city and county.

At least 15 automobiles were lined up behind a stalled truck late yesterday on the West Fourth street road at the B. and O. crossing.

Another truck stalled on a hill on route 42 just south of the city limits and held up traffic. State highway workers came to the rescue and spread cinders on the slippery roads.

While the Mansfield area was soaked in three inches of snow and slush, the snow ranged up to eight inches deep in northeastern Ohio where power lines were broken by the weight of the clinging snow and ice.

Hardest hit by the storm were Akron, Canton, Youngstown, and Steubenville. The snow, how-

EXERTION FATAL

Man Dies of Stroke After Cleaning Sidewalk.

Thomas O. Whorl, 72, of 765 West Fourth street, died at his home Sunday evening of a cerebral hemorrhage after cleaning the sidewalk. He had returned to the house and died a few minutes after collapsing.

Mr. Whorl was born Sept. 16, 1867, in York, Pa., coming to Mansfield 35 years ago. He was formerly employed by the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, retiring a few years ago.

He is survived by his wife; a daughter, Ruth, Akron; two sons, Paul of Canton and Thomas H. of Mansfield; a sister, Mrs. Thomas McCoty of York, Pa., and two brothers, William and Oscar of York, Pa.

The body is at the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 3 p. m. Wednesday in charge of Rev. B. F. Hagelberger of the First Christian church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

FATHER JAILED

Arrested for Murder on 'Tip' Given by His Stepdaughter.

LEXINGTON, Ky. — (U.P.)—John Henry Bledsaw, 32, colored, who was arrested on information furnished by his 11-year-old stepdaughter, was charged with murder today after having confessed, according to police, the slaying of James C. O'Mar, 23, Fulton, Ky., an engineering student at the University of Kentucky.

Britain Claims Capture of Two German Ships

U-Boat Torpedoes Destroyer, 157 Lose Lives; Legal Battle Being Waged To Intern Prison Ship Driven Ashore By British; Merchant Ships Sunk.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Great Britain and Germany traded blow for blow today in furious naval warfare.

While the British pridefully counted two captured German merchant ships as prizes of their sea blockade, the admiralty disclosed the British destroyer Daring had been torpedoed and sunk with a loss of 157 lives.

The enemy powers, meanwhile, waged a legal battle over the fate of the German prison ship Altmark, the British pressing for internment of the vessel in Norway, where a British destroyer cornered her Friday, and the Germans demanding her release.

The Daring was the sixth destroyer lost by Britain since the outbreak of the war. In all, the British fleet has lost 25 vessels, of which 14 were capital ships, destroyers or submarines.

Where or when the 1,375-ton Daring was sunk was not disclosed.

She carried four 4.7-inch guns, seven smaller guns and eight 21-inch torpedo tubes. She was completed Nov. 24, 1932, at a cost of about $1,125,000 and could attain the exceptional speed of 38.2 knots.

Among those lost were her master, Commander S. A. Cooper.

The German high command communique in Berlin reported the sinking of a destroyer and an undisclosed number of convoyed merchant steamers and tankers "in various sea areas" yesterday.

Two of six German ships reported to have gambled against the British naval cordon in a dash from Vigo, Spain, were brought into a British west coast port — 8,000-ton Morea, loaded with manganese ore, and the 8,542-ton Rostock, the British announced.

The Morea's crew of 28 men and seven officers were British prisoners. There was no word on the Rostock's crew or cargo and no explanation of the capture of either ship.

Six merchant ships—two British and four neutral—were week-end casualties of the war at sea or regular maritime hazards.

Norway 'In Middle.'

Britain's pressure on Norway for interment of the Altmark and Germany's demands for Norwegian action against the British placed the little neutral state ticklishly in the middle. She stood between diplomatic fronts of two belligerent powers.

Germany already had protested over ineffective protection afforded by the Norwegian navy for the Altmark in Norwegian territorial waters, where a British boarding party Friday night attacked the Altmark and released more than 300 captive British seamen from the prison ship.

On the other hand, there was the British demand that the 12,000-ton Altmark be interned for the duration of the war on the grounds that she served as a German navy auxiliary by taking aboard, for transport to Germany, crewman of seven British merchant ships sunk by the now-scuttled pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

Germany had demanded that the Oslo government take "all possible measures" against "the perpetrators" of the attack on the Altmark, and Norway Saturday formally called upon the British to return the prisoners of war, although they already had

BULLETIN

HELSINKI—(AP)—"Annihilation" of the Russian 18th division with 18,000 Russians killed and taken prisoner was announced today by the Finnish high command.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Red army troops hammered today almost at the doors of Viipuri, Finland's second largest city, after isolating Fort Moivisto, western anchor of the Mannerheim line, a Soviet communique said.

(A Finnish communique reported a "weakening" in Russian pressure on the Karelian isthmus, scene of three weeks' bitter fighting. But the Finnish report was for Saturday, the Russian for Sunday.)

Viipuri, center of Karelia christianity for 700 years and a prime objective of Russian troops since the start of the war, appeared hard pressed as the Soviet reported capture of Johannes, Maksalathi and Somme on the Finnish coastal railway.

Somme is only about six miles from Viipuri, and a Russian communique Saturday reported the Red army had reached a point about four miles from Viipuri in another sector to the east.

Occupation of the coastal railway towns apparently snapped Koivisto's overland communication with Viipuri, for the three

DILEMMA: War Takes Toll From Neutral Scandinavians

(Editor's Note—The Scandinavian states have so far guarded their neutrality in Europe's wars, but the price has been incomparably higher than during the World war. Following is the first of three dispatches outlining the most important losses suffered by the Scandinavian states and the economic problems behind them.

By PETER C. RHODES

(UP Staff Correspondent)

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — Europe's wars are exacting a costly toll from the 3,143,000 square miles and 12,875,000 people of Scandinavia.

Northern Europe's neutral shipping is delayed and destroyed as warring sides try to control or freighten it off the seas.

Trade balances grow more and more adverse. Consumer prices sky-rocket. Protests to belligerents are ignored. Daily the war strikes closer to Scandinavian frontiers.

Yet the outstanding aim of the governments of Sweden, Norway and Denmark continues to be maintenance of their neutrality.

The cost of the war to the northern neutrals cannot be reckoned in dollars and cents entirely but the economic and financial toll is steadily increasing as a result of the Red army invasion of Finland, the intensification of the war at sea between Germany and the allies.

But it can be indicated by the toll of ships sent to the bottom,

Perfect Mate We Didn't Marry

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

It would be downright funny, if it were not for the tragic element women get out of books which reflect problems that beset their own lives. Women who wouldn't think of wasting a second on best sellers go hungrily after biographies of the great and the near great, which have to do with philandering husbands.

She was the typically "little woman," no need to describe her, who shamefacedly mumbled her request for a recent work on Charles Dickens having to do with certain primrosepath straying on the part of the great novelist. The book was out, so she then asked for "Napoleon as Lover and Husband." She got that and doubtless is engaged at this moment in camparing the philandering of her own Mr. Smith or Jones with that of the French emperor.

I could not refrain from asking the young lady at the information desk what type of book represented the favorite reading of the tired housewife.

The answer came with a twinkle: "She likes to read about great men who have the same weaknesses as her husband.

On the way home I began to think of all the letters which had come to this column about husbands' Marias, and wondered if the "perfect" love wasn't always the girl Mr. Smith or Mr. Jones didn't marry. And I thought what a splendid thing it would be if, like the great novelist, all the husbands in the world were given a chance to meet their long lost loves and could see with their own eyes that they had probably grown as fat and frumpish' as the "little women" at home to whom they were married.

So few of us have the philosophy to take the goods the gods provide, and make the best of them.

While we were talking about these dream partners, please let me say they don't all belong to the men. The ladies, bless 'em, have just as many sentimental regrets. A staid matron, holding in her hand the gavel with which she was about to call to order a terribly important meeting of other staid matrons, whispered to me, as she passed by my chair: "Last night I dreamed of George. You remember George, don't you? We were engaged when I was 18. If I'd only married him, how different life would have been." I was mean enough to add: "If you had married George, you'd probably be calling to order more conferences than you're addressing at the present."

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"You will understand, of course," I told Philip Veritzen as Olina and Mary took their positions, "that Olina's role in this scene is mostly that of harpist. She strums softly on the harp during most of the dialogue, and her only lines are a colloquy with Mary. But in order to give you the effect, I think I ought to read the lines of the other players while Olina plays."

"I think so, too," he said, and then we settled down to a rehearsal of the scene as I had given it to Mary and Olina. Everything went smoothly, and Philip Veritzen made no comment until the last line of the scene had been spoken. Then he rose and bowed elaborately to Olina.

"My congratulations, my dear," he said. "You have given a very creditable performance, one that will be entirely adequate. Of course, much of the credit should go to Mrs. Graham, whose handiwork shows in every inflection."

He turned and bowed to me, and Olina spoke hurriedly.

"I owe everything to her," she said.

"I could have done nothing if you had not possessed the essential dramatic spark," I replied, but I was seething inside. How dare he ignore Mary as if she had no part in the play at all! I shot a furtive glance at her, for I did not wish to embarrass her by so much as a look, and I never was prouder of her as when I saw her standing perfectly poised in the position in which she had spoken her last line, waiting for whatever was to be said to her.

At last he turned to his daughter-in-law.

"You carried that off very well, Mary," he said in a manner more infuriating than any adverse criticism could have been. "You certainly are as admirable a student as your aunt is a teacher. Those are new lines, yet I noticed that you do the others in which I drilled you. Both you and your aunt must be very close observers."

"I am glad that you liked them," Mary murmured, and as he looked at me, I girded myself for speech.

"The lines had to be given in exactly the same way as the others," I said. "Otherwise, there would be a noticeable break. So Mary and I very carefully worked them out together. Naturally, I am pleased at your approval."

"I can do nothing else but approve," he said slowly, "and I am anticipating a very pleasureable—and enlightening—experience tomorrow when we have our first general rehearsal. I have taken great pains in drilling you, Mary, and I know that your aunt has been equally painstaking and assiduous in seeing that you adhered to my teaching in every slightest detail. I am counting much upon the inspiration your reading of your lines will be to the rest of the cast."

Nail Care Pays Big Dividends

By MME QUI VIVE

Why are they called hangnails? They aren't nails at all. They're horrid little shreds of flesh that have broken away from the place where they belong, hurt like sin when you touch them.

How do you get them? Through neglect, you careless girl. Take care of your claws, give them a minute or two of attention each day and you'll never have one. The cuticle about the nail needs oil. If it doesn't get it, it creeps up over the body of the pink shell, clings like all get out, then, not knowing what else to do, it breaks and cracks and trouble ensues.

Hands and nails both demand protective measure. They take a lot of punishment, especially if one is a home girl, engineers the domestic machine. Rough work thickens the cuticle that surrounds the nails and it raises the dickens with the satin surfaces of the hands. Once again we urge the use of rubber gloves. All housekeepers have them, few use them. Well, let those who don't use them stop bawling about hand and nail griefs.

Strong cleaning agents take a heavy toll. No need of using them. Soap manufacturers are giving us high grade products now. Time was when a woman hated to put her hands in dish water, used a little mop. And watch out for the effects of furniture polish. Whenever you shine up the family mahogany, put on cotton gloves. Window washing! Ha! what that will do to you!

Keep an orangewood stick in your bathroom, where you will see it. At least once a day, after washing your hands, use the stick to lift up the cuticle around the nails. By doing that you'll never have a hangnail to madden you. Takes only a minute. Run it under the nail eaves to keep the white lines even.

Perhaps you bite off hangnails. You'll make a wound and a wound invites germs and germesses that cause infections. Use the curved needle point scissors, point them toward the nail base, don't snip too closely. Don't file the nails far down at the sides. That practice causes the surrounding flesh to harden.

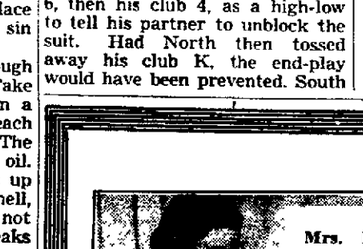
"The Authority on Authorities"

PROTECT YOUR PARTNER

While the declarer is running off a string of set-up tricks, you should see that he probably is trying to strip the hands down so that he may try for a squeeze or lead-throwing end-play. Even if your own hand seems almost worthless, you may be able to protect your partner by means of your discards, indicating to him what he should hold and what he should throw away. Otherwise he may prove helpless prey to the declarer's scheme.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

Bidding: West, pass; North, pass; East, 1-Spade; South, pass; West, 3-Hearts; North, pass; East, 4-No trumps; South, pass; West, 5-Hearts; North, pass; East, 6-Spades.

West's jump raise having shown that he had a hand practically as good as an opening bid, East was ready for a small slam as soon as his partner's response to the Blackwood's 4-No Trumps bid showed possession of two aces.

After South led the club 5 to the dummy's A, East rattled off three high trumps, four hearts, a fourth spade to the 10, then led the club 8 from dummy. North, who had retained two cards in each minor, took with his club K, then had his choice between giving the declarer a ruff-and-discard by means of a club return and building two diamond tricks for East by leading from his honors. So East lost only the one club trick and made his contract.

South might have prevented North's trouble. On the hearts, he could have discarded first his club 6, then his club 4, as a high-low to tell his partner to unblock the suit. Had North then tossed away his club K, the end-play would have been prevented. South could have won the club trick later, then led through the diamond A toward North's K.

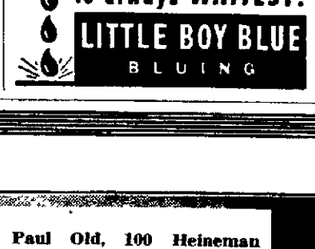
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

With sound bidding, play and defense, what should be the result of this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, Feb. 20.

A most fortuitous chain of planetary influences should make this day an eventful and memorable one. Things move at swift-moving pace into channels of progress and prosperity. This may demand a rearrangement of plans with the assistance of strange persons, new contacts and different surroundings. Travel seems imminent. New propositions and adventures are the order of the day, with old associates and systems proving a stumbling block. Social enjoyments are also a happy side issue.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a pleasant, productive and prosperous year, with many new events and experiences. A breaking away from old plans, objectives and ties is quite probable, with strange places and fresh contacts desirable. Fine stimuli for progress or creative work may come from inspired sources rather than outgrown ideals.

A child born on this day may be splendidly endowed with faculties for success, perhaps in new and imaginative, possibly being channels, as it should be original inspired from hidden sources. Its disposition will be lovable, genial, generous.

Oysters Play Varied Role

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

TODAY WE devote our space to oyster dishes, which will be useful during Lent.

Oyster Bisque, our first recipe, is made with a pint of oysters, two tablespoons butter or substitute, slice of onion (minced), two tablespoons flour, three cups milk, salt and pepper, one-ofurth cup whipping cream, dash of paprika or minced parsley and crisp crackers. Add water enough to the oyster liquor to total one cup. Cook oysters in this liquor until the edges curl. Drain, reserving liquor. Chop oysters very fine. Melt butter, cook onion in fat five minutes. Stir in flour and add milk, stirring until thickened, add oyster liquor and chopped oysters, salt and pepper to taste. Bring to a boiling point, then cook in double boiler for 20 minutes. Whip cream and fold into soup just before serving. Garnish with dash of paprika or minced parsley. Serve with heated crackers.

Creamed Oysters is made with a pint of oysters, teaspoon each butter and lemon juice, two tablespoons each butter and flour, one-half teaspoon salt, cup thin cream, one-half cup strained oyster liquor, slight grating nutmeg, crackers, tablespoon minced parsley. Clean oysters thoroughly. Put in saucepan with liquor, add one teaspoon butter and one teaspoon lemon juice. Heat and cook only until edges begin to curl and oysters are plump. Drain reserving liquor, keeping oysters hot. Make a cream sauce or butter, flour seasoning, cream and oyster liquor. Heat crisp crackers, butter lightly. Place two oysters on each cracker. Pour over cream sauce. Garnish with parsley. Yield: four to six portions.

Panned Variety.

Panned Oysters is a favorite supper dish. Select large, plump oysters. Place on cloth and press gently until quite dry. On a serving dish, have ready melted butter seasoned with lemon juice, salt, a dash of cayenne pepper and minced parsley. In a hot, well-buttered fryingpan, delicately brown oysters on both sides. When edges curl, drop them, one by one, into the seasoned butter and keep hot, until remaining oysters are browned. Arrange heated, lightly buttered crackers on hot serving plates and place two oysters on each cracker. Garnish with lemon slices and parsley.

Oysters are tasty for luncheon or supper when prepared and served in individual ramekins. Make this dish with two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon flour, three-fourths cup cream, two-thirds cup tomato catsup, teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, salt, pepper, pine of oysters and crackers. Melt butter in saucepan, and blend in flour. Add cream and catsup, stir and cook until thickened. Add Worcestershire sauce, few drops lemon juice, salt and pepper. Cook oysters in liquor until edges curl. Drain, place oysters in individual buttered ramekins, cover with the sauce. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 15-20 minutes. Serve on toasted crackers Four portions.

BANANA BREAD

HAVANA — (INS) — Producing meal for bread and crackers from bananas will become a Cuban industry of international significance if the plans of Agriculture Secretary Amandeo Lopez Catsro are successful. One large plantation has already started work on a factory to produce banana meal. Dr. Amandeo Lopez believes that the meal, rich in vitamins, will not only have a wide sale in Cuba, but with proper advertising can be sold abroad in large quantities.

Muhammad In The Ancient Scripture, and The Koranic Conception of Religion

(Every educated male and female should surely read this lecture for the sake of knowledge and truth—The Islamic Mission, Mansfield, Ohio.)

The Islamic Mission, Mansfield, Ohio.

The Rev. M. Dass has said in his letter that the Mohamnedans are wrong in looking upon Muhammad as the Mediator, because Muhammed was a sinner, and sinner could not recommend other sinful men. The reply is, that it is a mistake to consider Muhammad a sinner. Rev. Dass and his followers should have proved from the Quran a single sinful act of his at least before they brought this charge against him. It is for the servant to beg a present of his master. How could he be sinful for that? If soliciting grace makes a man sinful, what words Jesus used when, as Luke 11:1 informs he prayed to God. If he used the same words which he taught others to use, they are "forgive us our sins.'

If he used other words, what were they? Then how can Jesus be a mediator? Can it not be that God may forgive the sins of one without any other's intervention and of others at His recommendation?

Other missionaries also quote from verse 2 of the chapter of Fatah of the Quran that God forgave all the anterior and posterior sins of Muhammad, with view to make us believe that Muhammad was a sinful man.

. the c ls prove beyond doubt that all his sins were forgiven. Why, then, could he not be a mediator? The Christians consider none innocent except Jesus, and Mathew 16:19 speaks of Peter as the Saviour of the people. This Peter is called Satan by Jesus in Matthew 16:23. Now if a guilty person could be a mediator how could Peter be the redeemer of the world?

What Others Says:

The French historian and poet, Lamartin, says of Muhammad:

"By whatever standard we may measure human greatness, where is there to be found a human being greater than he? If the greatness of the enterprise, the limitations of the means, and the immensity of the result are the three measures of human genius, who can, then, humanly speaking, compare any great man of more recent history with Muhammad? The most famous of these have only busied themselves with arms, laws and kingdoms; they have not founded anything other than a worldly power which fell to pieces at their feet. Muhammad roused armies, kingdoms, senates, peoples, princely families, millions of human beings over a third of the inhabited globe; he brought down altars, gods, religions, ideas, creeds; he set up on the foundation of a book in which every letter has become law, a spiritual nationality which embraces all tongues and all races and on this Islamic nationality he has set an indelible seal."

The Swedish author, George Ljungstrom, who was honored by his famous countryman, August Strindberg, with the title of "Great," once wrote:

"I know that no name of founder of a religion is so scorned and reviled in Europe as Muhammad's, but I, ever since my school days, have re-acted most indignantly against the contempt with which our historians have regarded his figure. I will admit that no name of any historic personage is to me greater, holier and dearer than Muhammad."

The Prophecies About the Advent of Muhammad.

(1) To unseal a prophecy and thoroughly understand its implication is certainly no easy task. For such utterances have not always been couched in felicitous language. Take, for instance, the prophecies of the Bible. Whether they relate to Jesus or to someone else, they are, as a matter of fact, indistinct and obscure, and have to be interpreted as we do a dream. Jesus adjudged John the Baptist to be Elias "which was to come" (Matt. 11:14), but the Baptist denied that important fact (John 1:21).

Ram Chandra and Parsao Ram were both Avatars, i.e. incarnations of God, according to the Hindus, still they could not recognize each other.

(2) Prophetic pronouncements always refer to the attributes and not the personal names of things, for the simple reason that it is not the name of a person but his attributes that count in the eyes of God. Of Jesus, son of Mary, for example, "Yasu" was the personal and "Messiah" the attributive name. In other scriptures you will not find the name as the term "Yasu" but the attribute of "Messiah" occurs in such [illegible] "Jerusalem" shall likewise [illegible] upon the city of M[illegible] Islam; for says the New Testament, Galatians (4:25), "For this Agar is Mount Sinai in Arabia and [illegible] which now is.

(3) By the [illegible] is meant [illegible] the stern and [illegible] Jesus explained [illegible] of the Prophet [illegible]

Hagar and Her Son.

Hagar and [illegible] by Abraham [illegible] Arabia, between [illegible] And they (Ishmael and his [illegible] Havilah unto Shur that is [illegible] Egypt as thou goes toward Assy[illegible] Havilah, son of N[illegible] pied the region that [illegible] is the wilderness [illegible] the head of the Red Sea. To-day this region is [illegible] ing by that name [illegible] mountainous region [illegible] Sea. To-day we know it as Hedjaz.

God's Command to Abraham To Sacrifice His ONLY SON.

If Abraham was told to sacrifice his ONLY SON then it was Ishmael, and if he was told to sacrifice Isaac then it was not his only son unless the Bible is mixed up as to who was first born. The Bible was altered in this case for national and theological purposes.

Ishmael was born to Abraham 14 years prior to Isaac (Gen. 16:16; 12:5).

When this argument is presented the Christian brother is taught to answer that Ishmael should not be considered as the son of Abraham, but the Bible kicks out their statement again at their face saying that Ishmael must be considered as the seed and son of Araham and God even promised Abraham to make Ishmael a great nation. Sara, the first wife, gave Hagar in marriage to Abraham, so that she might bring forth a child that would be a rightful descendant of Abraham (Gen. 16:3).

Taking everything into consideration, the descent of the Prophet Muhammad from Abraham, is as proud and honourable as that of Jesus and of all the Israelitish Prophets preceding him.

Moses.

Deut. 18:15-19: "The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet . . . I will raise them up a prophet from among their brothern. . . ."

There is ample evidence in the New Testament to prove that the Jews were still expecting this prophet promised in the Deut. 18:15, up to the time of Jesus. John 1:19-25 tells us that the Jews sent priests and levites from Jerusalem to ask of John the Baptist: "'Who art thou?' And he confessed and denied not; but confessed, 'I am not the Christ.' And they asked him, 'Art thou Elias?' And he saith, 'I am not.' 'Art thou that Prophet?' And he answered, 'No.' And they asked him and said unto him, 'Why baptizest thou then if thou be not that Christ, nor Elias neither that Prophet."

It can be easily recognized from this, that just preceding Jesus's public appearance, three different and distinct prophets were expected. It is recorded in addition, during his mission, "Then those men when they had seen the miracles that Jesus did, said, 'This is of a truth that Prophet should come into the world.'" (John 6:14). The cross-reference to this verse, in the King James version of the Bible is Deuteronomy 18:15. Confusion seemed to come later. John 7:40-43 tells us: "Many of the people, therefore, when they heard this saying, said, 'Of a truth this is the Prophet.' (Cross-reference Deut. 18:15). Others said: 'This is the Christ.' . . . So there was a division among the people because of him."

There is no record of any kind which indicates that Jesus ever claimed the prophecy of Deut. 18:15 for himself. Certain of his words, as brought down to us, seems to apply to one that should follow him.

"Howbeit, when he, the spirit of truth is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will show you things to come." (John 16:13-14). When Jesus was no longer with them in the flesh, the apostles sought to solve this difficulty by declaring that Deut. 18:15 was to be fulfilled by second coming Christ.

"And he shall send Jesus Christ which before was preached unto you: Whom the Heaven must receive until the times of restitution . . . for Moses truly said . . . 'A prophet shall the Lord your God RAISE UP unto you of your brethren, like unto me.'" (Acts 3:20-23).

Somebody had conceived a brilliant idea, giving a new interpretation to the verb "to raise up." If we turn to the beginning of the 18th chapter of Deuteronomy, in our English Bible, we shall see that the Christian translators supply as a sub-title to the 15th verse, "Christ the Prophet is to be heard." But can we be satisfied with this solution? Deuteronomy 18:15 calls for the appearance of a prophet, of a man among men, like unto Moses, and not a deity.

We are tempted to continue the study of Jesus and his qualifications for fulfilment of this particular prophecy, which he never claimed for himself.

Was not Muhammad raised by the One God . . . from their very brethren, the Ishmaelites? Yet proof of Muhammad's claim, with regard to his likeness to Moses, was not long wanting. Did he not become a spiritual leader, the founder of a nation out of tribesmen, as was the great Israelite? Deuteronomy 18:21,22 supplies us with further help: "How shall we know the word which the Lord hath spoken? When a Prophet speaketh in the name of the Lord, if the thing follow not, nor come to pass, that is the thing the Lord hath not spoken."

The number of prophecies which Muhammad uttered, and which have been realized is a matter of record.

We come to the close of Moses's majestic life. He was about to die. "And this is the blessing wherewith Moses, the man of God, blessed the children of Israel before his death. And he said: 'The Lord came from Sinai, and rose up from Seir unto them; he shined forth from Mount Paran and he came with ten thousand of his saints, from his right hand went a fiery law for them.'" (Deut. 32:2).

Here we can recognize another important prophecy regarding the brethren of Israelites. "The Lord came from Sinai," this has reference to the call which came to Moses originally at Sinai (Exodus 3:1-10). He was sent from Mount Hared, itself, back to Egypt, to deliver his people and lead them again to Canaan: "And rose up from Seir unto them," the call came to Jesus in these mountains of Palestine: "he shined forth from Mount Paran, and he came forth with ten thousands of his saints . . ."

That this last prophecy relates to the Prophet Muhammad may be easily demonstrated. The "ten thousands of his saints" has cross-reference which would make of them an angelic host appearing in the sky with God (Daniel 7:10; Acts 7:53; Gal. 3:19). But we find that the next verse, which follows the prophecy itself, states: "Yea, he loved the people; all his saints are in thy hand." (Deut. 33:3). Righteous followers are many times described as saints, in Hebrew scripture.

If these ten thousands of saints are righteous followers, where may we determine their identity. Moses twice took a census of his followers: The second year in Sinai, the men of twenty years and upward, able to go to war, numbered 603,-550 souls (Numbers 2:46); after the Israelites had compassed the land of Edom, Moses counted 601,730 footmen (Numbers 26:51). Obviously our prophecy does not concern itself with this great host.

Let us advance through the centuries, however, to Paran. It was in a mountainous wilderness that the Prophet Muhammad received his first revelation. (It is impossible to determine the location of these ancient mountains of Arabia and Sinai; our geographers tell us that they have not been identified.)

It is a fact of history that, during the interval of open warfare, he encamped a day's journey from Mecca with ten thousand devoted followers. Persons who had been moved by his revelations, from all surrounding nations, were among his disciples. "They to whom the scriptures have been given, recognize him as they do their own children." (Quran VI:20). His sole desire was to establish the reign of righteousness and justice, of respect for the individual and compassion for the poor and afflicted. From his right hand went the fiery law of Islam which, by its light, provided a distinction between good and evil.

As the Prophet Muhammad struck down the idols that had been introduced into the Kaaba, the Sacred house of Mecca, he cried aloud: "Truth is come and Falsehood has vanished; verily falsehood is but evanescent." (Quran 17:18). And when later that day he addressed the assembled Meccans, he asked of them: "What mercy can you expect from the man you have wronged?" "Thou art a noble brother and the son of a noble brother," they replied. Tears filled the eyes of the Prophet as he answered: "I shall speak to you as Joseph spake unto his brothers.—this day there is no reproof against you; God will forgive; He is the most merciful and compassionate."

Some other prophecies from the Bible

"Blessed is the man whose strength is in thee; in whose heart are the ways of them; who passing through the valley of Becca (the old name of Mecca) make it a well; the rain also filleth the pools." (Psalms 84:5-6). Abraham had left his wife Mecca at the instigation of his first wife Sara. Here "Well" means the "Well Zem-Zem" which had appeared to quench the thirst of the child and which still exists at Mecca.

"They (all the flocks of Kedar) shall come up with acceptance on mine altar, and I will glorify the house of my glory" (Isaiah, 60:7). Kedar is the name of a son of Ishmael (Vide Gen. 25:13), and the famous QURAISH tribe to which Muhammad belonged had sprung up from Kedar.

"The stone which the builders refused is become the head stone of the corner." (Psalm. 118:22). Referring to this Jesus said—"Did ye never read in the scriptures, the stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner; this is the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes?" (Matt. 21:42). The famous Black Stone is to this day lying at Mecca and honoured by the pilgrims with kisses. It has been kept there as a monument, being of the time of Abraham and his son Ishmael when they were building the temple of Kaaba. It is the stone that was "cut out of mountain without hands," (Daniel 2:45).

(Genesis 17:20) "And as for Ishmael I have heard thee: behold I have blessed him, and will him fruitful, and will multiply him exceedingly; twelve princes shall he beget, and I will make him a great nation."

(Gen. 16.11-12) "And the Angel of the Lord said unto her: 'behold thou art with child, and shalt bear a son, and shalt call his name Ishmael, because the Lord hath heard thy affliction; and he will be wild man. . . ." The word Arabian has been translated into 'wild man.'

(Isaiah 21:13-16) The burden upon the Arabian in the forest in Arabia shall ye lodge, O ye travelling companies of Dedanin. The inhabitants of the land of Tems brought water to him who was thirsty, they prevented with bread, him that fled." See also (Mal. 3:1), (Isaiah 40-3) Jeremiah 2:10-11).

The Quarnic Conception of Religion.

It is not a matter for surprise if the pre-Islamic conception of religion should have caused a feeling of revolt among cultured people. They think that our passions of hope and fear have led us to believe in the existence of a Deity. We sometimes find our efforts thwarted, and we fail, from unknown causes, to obtain the object of our pursuit; on the other hand, we make gains on other occasions without any effort on our part. In both cases we fail to discover any apparent cause, and are thus led to believe that our welfare and mishaps come to use through agencies beyond our control. Our ignorance, however, ascribes it all to the anger or pleasure of some Unknown Being, who eventually becomes the object of our worship. We pray to Him for gain, and entreat Him to save us from loss. Indeed, all this occurs to us in pursuance of certain laws working in Nature. They are unchangeable, and are forever at work. Our ignorance of or our disobedience to them produces all that happens to us, but we erroneously look to some imaginary Deity as the Creator of such vicissitudes in life. Had we discovered all the laws of Nature and respected them, everything would have gone to our satisfaction, and we should have been saved from the burden of religion.

The Holy Book speaks of such Unseen Being as Allah, who neither needs our worship nor obeisance (Quran, XXXI 12.)

His worship according to the Quran, consist in our obeying His laws, which are found in Nature. The whole world seems to be in the hand of a Governor who administers it under a system of set laws. Laws in nature compelled Science to believe in the existence of the Unseen. It had, however to pass through several stages of research before that belief dawned upon its votaries. These laws were evolved to serve some preconceived end.

Science bowed before God. He was the first intelligent cause of Spencer, and the Allah of the Quran. The Book made up in this respect a great deficiency existing in the old scriptures. How could we think of God if we had no belief in His existence? The Quran repeatedly sets before our intelligent observation various phenomena of Nature that compel the human mind in its creator. The Book teems with logic and reason in this respect.

(1) The process of creation (Quran, XCVI 1-5). Things remain appearing and disappearing; they come to existence, and become destroyed after reaching their perfection; they go on automatically on their course and find everything already in existence to meet their wants. The whole process proceeds with mathematical precision and mechanical regularity under a most capable and vililant supervision. How could it take place without some competent engineer to direct it.

(2) There exists a most wonderful relation in everything. All things take attitudes supplementary or complementary towards each other, though they exist in different provinces of Nature. For example, all that descent from the sky in the form of light, heat, etc., would be of no avail if the Earth had not the power of receptivity. She receives them and becomes conceived if innumerable things which she has brought forth gradually to our use. Activity and passivity are always at work everywhere, and relation between things located so distantly from each other could not be a matter of accident.

(3) Man is admittedly a worshipping animal. We crave for an object of adoration: we may bow down before a stone, or prostrate ourselves before the Unseen, but we all respond to a life tendency. Buddhists, with their atheistic bent of mind, pay the same homage to Buddhas images as we do to God. Even an atheist worships Law. If the God of Culture is the God of Law, and we on the other hand cannot avail ourselves of anything without obeying it—nay, we cannot live for a moment without our intelligence to Law—how can we dispense with a creed or code of life that preaches to us the very religion of Nature, the religion of "commandment and obedience."

The Quran speaks of the generation of prophets. They appeared from time to time, and brought messages from the Lord to their people. Each and all of them repeatedly enjoined upon mankind one message—to obey Allah, and to worship Rabb—the Creator, Nourisher, Maintainer, and Evolver of the Universe. The same message has been given to us in the Quran. It does not demand from us that we place effigies and images of Allah in our shrines and bow down before them, that would be more mockery. The Muslims no doubt do bow down and prostrate themselves before the Unseen, but that is merely the sign of their willingness to bow down to His Will, the Law of the Atheist. Allah, as the Quran says, is the Source of all laws in general, while Rabb frames such laws as are observed by Nature in the creation and maintenance of things, from the first stage up to their perfection. Religion, in its true form, comes to support some of the laws, it goads us to their observance. Islam, then, is the creed of the so-called ante-religionist. It is not in our eating and drinking and performance of nuptial rites that all our duties and obligations become exhausted. Animals do the same.

Life After Death.

We have various faculties in us to be developed, and true civilization lies in their fruition. Some of them developed here, but others remain in abeyance. There must be some life after death to bring all our faculties to perfection. Every one of the blessed race that claimed to have brought the Divine Message to the human race preached of the hereafter.

The whole question turns on the existence of the future life. It is, of course, an intricate problem, but the observation of things around us and the long revolutionary journey which the etherial world has had to travel up to the stage of human consciousness, under the wise guidance of the Originator and Designer, clearly show that the human frame, in its material form, cannot be the final stage of that journey. The Book speaks emphatically also of the subservience of the whole of the universe to our needs, and of various other gifts to us, numberless and beyond imagination. In short, whatever we may need has already been produced. The Design of the whole scheme, which took Him millions of years to accomplish, must have some true purpose before Him. It could not have been all in vain.

Was it all a matter of sport if we had only to live for a brief space of time and then to disappear forever?

That is to give the lie to the Creator of the Universe, and to find fault with Nature that seems so perfect and free from all flaw.

The present, in every sphere, is admittedly the mother of the future. The welfare of the trouble of the coming days must depend upon our present actions. We are in another embryonic condition here, and have to be born in other regions beyond the grave.

The Quran came to confirm knowledge already received, but it differed from the other Scriptures in spirit and in form. It was neither a treatise on ritualism, like the Rig Veda, the Hindu Sacred Book, nor was it a tribal record, like the Bible. It spoke of ceremonial piety, and declared it only means to attain higher ends. It narrates certain historical events, but only to illustrate some of the principles it inculated.

Heaven and Hell.

Heaven and hell, according to Muhammad's teaching, are different stages of the evolutionary journey, to the realms beyond the grave. Our physical nature binds us to earth, but when our consciousness shall have evolved into further progress, it will become clothed, impelled by constructive ability, by some element—Noor is the Arabic word for it, which may be translated by light—that will carry it through the various avenues of the Universe. This the Muslim conception of heaven, and the Muslim hell is just the reverse of it. The one refers to our faculties in full fruition, the other in their stunted stage.

Prayer.

Prayer is an act by which humanity, conscious at once of its physical weakness and inner strength, puts itself, either directly or indirectly, into real and effective communication with the Almighty, the Living, the Omniscient, and the Omnipresent God, Who responds to human call.

Prayers to a god who is not almighty and omnipresent, prayers to a "finite person," cannot carry much conviction, and their efficacy is also marred. If our God has no power, or is not willing to help us in all difficulties, anywhere and anytime, then there is not much use calling upon Him.

The Human Soul is not mortal.

The Holy Quran says: "Nafaphtu fihi min Ruhi" (Allah breathed His Soul into man.)

Jesus (peace be upon him) said: "Beliest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in me?

The words that I speak unto you, I speak not of myself, the Father that dwelleth in me He doeth the works." (John XIV 10). The sayings of great Hindu saints are full of such sentiments.

Agreat Muslim saint has also said: "I became Thou and Thou becamest me. I became the body and Thou the Soul. So that nobody could say any more that I am different and Thou are different."

Not only have the three sister religions—Judaism, Christianity and Islam—taught man to believe that he possess something of Divine in Him, but so did even the old religions. Man in his physical capacity is nothing but an animal. He is weaker than many animals. At a certain time of his life he is more helpless even than an ant. An ant can find its food, but a human baby at his birth cannot even do that.

There can be no doubt that man owes a great deal, in fact all, to a merciful Providence, and so a prayer to Him cannot be but real—an instinctive expression of human gratefulness.

The more man realizes his dependence on the mercy and will of Allah as a higher Being, the more his prayers will be real and sincere. Even the cleverest scientist of the age cannot deny that human life can be destroyed in a second by accidents. The fact is that there is nothing strange in death. It is life which is a marvel. Think of all those poisonous germs which co-exists with man in this world. Think of all those accidents which can occur to any man any minute. And then will it be possible to realize human dependence upon Providence, and then will the realty of prayer be impressed upon the human mind.

'Dread Penalty' Placed On Cleveland Catholic Parish

RESULTS FROM QUARREL OVER NAMING PRIEST

Interdiction Ordered After Parishioners Again Block Induction of Pastor.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—One of the most dread penalties of the Roman Cathalic church — interdiction — was in force against the several hundred members of the Holy Redeemer today.

By having been interdicted, the parishioners were deprived of all the sacraments of the church, except that of extreme unction. They may not be married validly in the eyes of the church. They cannot receive Communion. They cannot receive the sacraments of confirmation, baptism, or penance. They may not even receive the simple blessing of a priest.

The penalty, seldom applied in modern times against groups, resulted from a conflict between Rev. Joseph Schrembs, archbishop of Cleveland, and the parishioners over who was to succeed the late Rev. Martin Compagno as pastor of the church.

The parishioners had assumed that Father Compagno's assistant for a number of years, who is very popular among them, would get the post. It was said that they had failed to make their desires known to their archbishop. Archbishop Schrembs appointed Rev. Vincent Caruso as pastor.

Father Caruso was to have been installed early in January. When he appeared at the rectory, the parishioners massed outside to bar his way. A path was forced through the crowd for him by police. That night the church bell was pealed by parishioners.

Last Sunday, Monsignor Floyd L. Begin, a diocesan official, went to the church to formally install Father Caruso as pastor. Parishioners barred their way. There was a discussion between the churchmen and the crowd that extended over three hours. At length, Father Begin locked the church, the rectory, and the parish's parochial school which has an enrollment of 200.

Crowd Waits Again.

Yesterday Fathers Begin and Caruso went to the church, which had been closed all week, for another attempt to install him. The crowd had gathered and awaited them. They were accompanied by 60 policemen, some armed with tear gas bombs, and 100 uniformed Knights of St. John and of the fourth degree Knights of Columbus. Police started to force a path. They were resisted and a fight seemed imminent. Boys in the crowd were pelting the knights and their automobiles with snowballs. At last, Father Begin raised his right arm and pronounced the dread interdiction.

Archbishop Schrembs indicated that he was not opposed to appointing the pastor of the parishioners' choice, but he could not do it while they were defying the authority of the church.

Father Begin said that before the interdiction could be lifted, the parishioners must do penance. He said the penance would be prescribed by the archbishop. The interdiction applies to all Catholics of the parish, but those who can demonstrate that they had nothing to do with barring Father Caruso, will be given permission to join another parish.

Holman Divorces 'Scarlett,' Gets Custody of Child

LONDON—(U.P.)—Herbert Leigh Holman was granted a decree nisi of divorce today from Vivien Leigh, star of the movie "Gone With the Wind."

Justice Sir Charlton Hodson, of the probate, divorce and admiralty division of the high court, granted the divorce on the ground cited by Holman, adultery by Miss Leigh with Laurence Olivier, also a movie star now in the United States. The suit was undefended.

Holman, a lawyer, was granted custody of the child by the marriage.

He pleaded that Miss Leigh went to Denmark in 1937 to act in Shakesperian productions and that Olivier was a member of the company. On her return to England, Holman said, she said she was in love with Olivier. She then left him, Holman said.

Oliver's wife, Actress Jill Esmond, recently obtained a decree nisi, citing Miss Leigh as co-respondent.

Decrees nisi in the British courts may be made final, so that the parties may remarry, after an interval of six months.

MAGNOLIA, Ark.—(AP)—Robert Black, 39, of Lima, O., fell 40 feet to his death yesterday while working on a gasoline extraction plant under construction here. Black a pipe fitter, apparently was overcome by escaping gas.

Woman Confesses Slaying Robbery Victim

Up and Down THE STREET

Glenn Rohleder, principal of the new Johnny Appleseed Junior high school, is thinking about getting himself a guide — and he really needs one. Rohleder has been doubling in brass of late, conducting visitors through the new building, rather than just letting them wander about. And he does a thorough job of it—for a Rohleder-conducted tour takes just one hour and is guaranteed not to miss a single point of interest, he's that enthusiastic about the new building.

Someone sent John G. Routzon, Chamber of Commerce secretary a clipping the other day that brought back a lot of memories. It was from a sports page column in a Findlay paper —and it said, in part: "Remember when John Routzon was the scoring sensation for the Findlay college basketball team? . . . as a sample of his work 20 years ago, he collected 31 points in Finday's 37-34 win over Defiance and 22 points in a 28-16 triumph over Ashland . . . in high school Routzon at 175 pounds was the biggest man on the football squad. He quarter-backed the 1918 eleven and Findlay ddin't lose a game."

Wonder what Emily Post has to say about the new fad that has struck Mansfield—one which is said to have originated in Hollywood. According to persons who follow the new practice, if your pedal extremities bother you while you're at a social gathering or even at a dance its perfectly proper to remove your shoes and make yourself comfortable. By the looks of things it won't be long until we have a checkroom for shoes or maybe hostesses will begin greeting guests with a pair of house slippers.

One of the "first time out" candidates for county office was stumped Saturday when he entered the courthouse to get signers for his petition and saw the warning notice to solicitors. He thought the warning against soliciting in the building probably included candidates too, so he left without his signatures, he told a friend. County commissioners, who posted the notice in the lobby, said it is not observed very well by peddlers and most candidates overlook it entirely.

SHOT DESPITE MERCY APPEAL, SHERIFF SAYS

'Fierce,' Short-Tempered Gun-Toter Confesses Twice to Hitch-Hike Slaying.

(By United Press)

LAKE CHARLES, La. Cooped up in jail today was a snarling, short-tempered young woman who had twice confessed, authorities said, to the brutal murder of the man she had made the victim of a robbery.

She had identified herself as Tonie Henry and Sheriff Henry A. Reid described her as "fierce." Five feet six inches tall, handsome in a swarthy way, she told Reid about the murder and about having slugged her male accomplice because he had been too "yellow" to rob a bank, but was too bashful to tell her story to a coroner's jury.

The victim was Joseph P. Calloway, 41, of Houston, a tire salesman. Last Wednesday he picked up two hitch-hikers, a man and a woman, near Orange, Tex. Following Mrs. Henry's direction, authorities found his naked body under a haystack 12 miles south of here Saturday afternoon. He had been shot once through the head.

She was arrested in Shreveport Saturday for having participated in the robbery of a hardware store in Beaumont, Tex., in which pistols were stolen. She confessed to having slain Calloway, authorities there said, and was brought here Saturday night.

As Calloway approached Lake Charles with his two guests, the woman poked a pistol in his ribs. He was forced to crawl into the rumble seat compartment and the top was closed upon him. The man and woman drove around for some time seeking a suitable place to shoot him. They found a lonely road west of Holmwood finally and Calloway was ordered out of the compartment to his doom.

He was forced to take off his clothes, garment by garment, and at last stood naked in a rice field. While he begged for mercy on his knees, the woman shot him, Sheriff Reid told the jury.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Excerpts From Midnight's Diary.

Broadway last week looked like a mazda version of the old corral, with cinema hoss opry heroes springing out at the night lifers from every canyon, crag and conga club, sprinting into taxis instead of the saddle, and knocking over champagne cocktails as if they were scalpin' Indians. And most of these lariat heroes turned out, on close inspection, to be that fabulous figure of the silent screen, William S. Hart.

Mr. Hart, according to his pals from the lone prairie, is in New York for his annual physical checkup, which—if his agile excursions into the late spots are any indication—is the last thing in the world he needs.

There is a legend that Mr. Hart never has seen the inside of a Hollywood night club, and this may be so, but something happens to him when he crosses the Mississippi, and he gets the urge to Go Places where a horse has never been seen.

Bill, as the old settlers around Times Square are beginning to call him, has explored all the taverns from the Stork to the Versailles to the Astor Bar. Monday night he drifted into Le Ruban Bleu to attend the very un-rural goings on, and was observed by Katharine Hepburn, eyed by Elaine Barrie, craned at by Buddy DeSylva and Princess Khetto Mikeladze. . . . Later he drifted into LaMartinique, and astonished the spectators by stepping out in a fancy rhumba with Evelyn Law, the former Ziegfeld girl (the one who always used to be photographed with one foot practically touching the ceiling, remember?) . . . On Tuesday night, his juvenile public caught up to him, and going into Leone's for a bite he was accosted by five ragamuffins of assorted size who held him up and demanded his autograph.

Bill not only scrawled his signature on their albums, but took them into the restaurant with him and fed them five large plates of spaghetti.

Everyone in the Famous Door Monday night was all set for a scene—anything from a refrigerated snub to a cafe bout—when Charlie Barnet walked in.

For, as everyone who read the papers knew, Charlie was once Dorothy Lamour's heart interest, and there at a prominent table sat Dorothy with Robert Preston, who, as everyone also is aware, is her current heart interest, and on swing street there is nothing more provocative of a duel than the meeting of a discarded dream prince and one who is doing pretty well.

But Charlie strolled right over to join the happy pair, and make it a pleasant three's-a-crowd, and among those who did not see a brawl or a chill were Doris Duke Cromwell, Bob Crosby and Prince Ibrahim of Egypt.

The hail bounced and the snow swirled and the wind swept a gale, but the skaters refused to pay any attention, and went on making figure eights as if it were a quiet Fourth of July in the Swiss Alps. . . .

Buddy, as he left the restaurant, succumbed to that old urge to mould a snowball, and tossed it at his favorite skater—a little girl seven years old. Toby, risking a handful of snow down her neck, grinned:

"Why didn't you autograph it for her?"

At the nearby Mayan restaurant, hearts were fluttering at a rate highly compatible with St. Valentine's day. Girls from all the Rockefeller Center office buildings kept bobbing in for a cocktail, an eager glance and a deep sigh. And the gentleman who had no idea he was causing such havoc was John Boles, who spent four hours in deep conversation with two other lads, and never knew he was breaking hearts all over the place.

RETIRED GUARD CAPTAIN DEAD

Peter McClure Stricken at 70; Came to Mansfield From Perrysville in 1913.

OHIO FARMERS WARNED NOT TO EXPECT 'WAR BOOM' IN FARMING

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Ohio farmers were warned today not to expect European strife to generate a boom for American agricultural products.

Contrary to a recent statement by former President Herbert Hoover, Ohio farm leaders said they did not anticipate a flood of food orders from the belligerents.

Hoover was quoted as saying, "sooner or later, the demand for large quantities of food will hit the United States, although it may not come until after the war."

Dr. I. J. Falconer, chairman of Ohio State university's rural economics department; John T. Brown, state director of agriculture, and Perry Green, Ohio Farm Bureau president, all advised against increased farm production on the basis of possible demands from Europe.

"The European war, if it lasts long enough, would call for some increases, but we don't know when it might end. I would not advise farmers to increase production," Dr. Falconer said, adding that he expected some price gains but "no boom."

Brown, pointing out that the United States already has surpluses of some products, said he could not predict definite effects of the war but advised that the United States avoid overproduction in expectation of a great foreign demand because of the demand might not develop or peace might be declared. Unpredictable weather conditions also should be considered, he said.

"I expect, if the war continues on the present basis, the farm product price level will hold steady with some increases, but there will be no big increase in the commodity price level," Green said.

"England is manaoing her sterling and forcing other countries to her own exchange basis," he continued, adding that England was trading as much as possible within the empire and with allies or possible allies.

The end of the war would mean an economic lapse, small if it comes early or big if the war lasts a long time. I would not advise heavy farm production," Green concluded.

THIRD OF SERIES

Aviation Authority Speaks at Institute Tonight.

Third of the Institute of International Understanding lectures wil be held at 8 p. m. today in the Senior high school auditorium with H. Canfield Cook, Canadian-born American as the speaker.

A member of the British Royal air corps during the war, Cook will speak on "The Influence of Aviation in International Relations."

Cook was educated at the old Upper Canada Law college in Toronto. After the World War he spent the winter of 1921 in the West Indies, then came to America to associate himself with the foreign travel business.

At 1:45 p. m. today Cook spoke to students of Senior high school during a special assembly. His appearance here is being sponsored by the University and Rotary clubs of Mansfield. W. J. Russell will act as chairman at tonight's session.

BECOMES HEAD OF KING AGENCY

Clevelander Comes to City to Direct Insurance Office.

Tom M. Mowry of Cleveland has assumed the managership of the R. H. King Insurance agency, 14½ Park avenue west. He was formerly special agent with the Aetna Casualty and Surety company, of which the King agency is the local representative.

Mowry said the agency would continue to operate at the same location, and retain the same name. Mrs. King, whose late husband operated the agency for many years, will retain her interests, and J. J. King, a son of the late R. H. King, will be connected with the office.

Mowry has been in the insurance business for six years, the last four with Aetna. He resides at 381 Park avenue west.

FARMER, 79, DIES

SECOND BLAST

Dynamite Bombs Damage Home, Bakery in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—The second dynamite bomb set off in the East Side district within 24 hours wrecked the porch of a garage service manager's home early today. A larger bomb ripped a bakery shop early yesterday.

Police said there was no apparent connection between the two explosions. No one was injured in either.

Clarence Maple told detectives that the garage at which he is employed as a manager had been picketed by unionists for several weeks. The blast shattered five windows of his home in addition to wrecking the porch.

More than 200 windows in homes, stores and a school over a four-block area were shattered by the bakery explosion. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

RETIRED POSTAL CLERK STRICKEN

Miss MacDonald Worked in Bucyrus Office for 35 Years.

BUCYRUS — Miss Alice MacDonald, 79, retired postal clerk here, died Sunday night at the home of Mrs. Fred Herman after an illness of over a year.

Born March 30, 1860, in Mt. Gilead, Miss MacDonald had lived in Bucyrus since a child. She was appointed a clerk in the postoffice here in 1882 and held that position for 35 years, retiring in 1927. She was a member of the Episcopal church.

Surviving are a brother, Scott MacDonald, with whom she made her home for the past 12 years, and a niece. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

S. R. Parrett officiating. Surviving beside the parents are two brothers, Donald and Edward and two sisters, Lucille and Madaline.

FAIR ENOUGH

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Aside from the rottenness in the American Federation of Labor—by which I refer narrowly to the activities of underworld criminals of the foulest type in union affairs—the federation has other faults which cancel its immunities, privileges and prestige. The A. F. of L. is not the body of Labor with a capital L at all, but a great, arrogant, corrupt, hypocritical, parasitic racket which preys on union men and the public, and persecutes non-members and has been getting away with many varieties and all degrees of crime, up to and including murder, for years.

Even at its best the American Federation of Labor has the gall to claim the right to say who shall be permitted to enter this or that line of work in a nominally free country, a right which no government short of a dictatorship would dare to assert.

Can you imagine what would happen to a national government which undertook to limit the number of citizens who might become carpenters, engravers or bricklayers, year by year, which extorted a high license or initiation fee, from the lucky few, and, on top of that, flagrantly permitted thieving bureaucrats to sell special temporary work-permits on the side as a private racket?

Can you imagine a government which would dare to issue to notorious hoodlums charters of privilege permitting them to acquire an income-taxing and jobselling authority over hundreds of thousands of small citizens and then washed its hands of responsibility for the extortion and persecutions including killings and vandalism committed by the criminals thus empowered?

The American Federation of Labor represents this kind of administration over the affairs of Labor with a capital L and still claims total immunity from any interference with corrupt and oppressive conduct by the courts of the United States or of the several states.

The national body claims a total membership of 4,250,000 members, which would mean paid up members, because delinquents are not counted and incidentally are not allowed to work, except if they pay private graft to individual racketeers holding the extortion privilege.

The average dues from each member would be not less than $25 a year, and this would mean that these working people pay $106,250,000 every year in dues alone, to say nothing of assessments, initiation fees and permit fees.

The national body gets a small cut off the top of that enormous lug; the international unions, some of which are absolutely controlled by criminals with records, take a deeper cut, and the rest of the money is used for God knows what by God knows whom.

It is true that some few big unions administer their affairs with at least a pretense of efficiency and accountancy, but millions of dollars just disappear and the members get no insurance, unemployment benefits or any other return, and are reasonably sure to be kicked out and thus barred from their occupations if they ask too many questions.

At the present moment the national body is prosecuting a case in San Francisco, not in the public courts but in its private courts, in which a local leader has been suspended on the ground that he dared to reveal the fact that the international president once served a prison term.

This is the swollen national racket which calls itself the body of Labor with a capital L. It has licensed criminals to exploit and rob both workingmen and employers, and has taken the attitude that any appeal to the courts by members is open to a suspicion of treason to labor.

The American Federation of Labor is so rotten in some respects that the bosses are afraid even to permit discussion of reform in the councils of the organization. Reform would blast too many of the boss politicians out of their own fat jobs and their rich perquisites.

WHEN TRACY SPIES THE BABY IN KROYWEN'S LABORATORY, HE STARTS TO PICK IT UP TO REMOVE IT TO A HOSPITAL. A FIGHT ENSUES.
YOU'VE KILLED KROYWEN. HIS HEAD HIT THAT TABLE LEG.
SURELY NOT THAT LITTLE FALL.
HE WAS AN OLD MAN— AND THE ONLY ONE WHO KNEW THE SECRET OF THAT SERUM.
DO YOU MEAN TO SAY THAT AFTER INOCULATING THIS CHILD WITH THE TROPIC DISEASE, HE HAD ONLY ONE DECANTER OF SERUM PREPARED?
RIGHT, AND IT'S SPILLED THERE ON THE FLOOR
NEVER MIND. THERE ARE ENOUGH GOOD DOCTORS IN THIS CITY TO CURE THE BABY— AND THEY WON'T NEED THAT MADMANS SERUM, EITHER!

POSTPONE BOUT

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—Cries of "running out" threaded through boxing circles today after the announcement that the 10-round middleweight championship fight between Henry Armstrong, Los Angeles Negro and Ceferino Garcia, bolo-punching titleholder, had been postponed to March 1 because of a rope burn on Garcia's leg.

BOSTON —(AP)— Signed contracts of Charlie Wagner, pitcher, and Leo Nonnekamp, utility outfielder, were received today by the Boston Red Sox.

Helen Hayes In Cleveland This Week in New Play

Fresh from a Broadway run, where she won renewed assurances of her leadership among American actresses, Helen Hayes is appearing in Cleveland this week in "Ladies And Gentlemen." Miss Hayes is co-starred with Philip Merivale in this comedy, the work of Charles McArthur and Ben Hecht and produced by Gilbert Miller.

The association of Miss Hayes and Mr. Merivale represents a distinguished reunion, for it was Mr. Merivale who played the tragic Earl of Bothwell to Miss Hayes' Mary Stuart in "Mary of Scotland." A more recent visit disclosed Miss Hayes as Queen Victoria.

In "Ladies and Gentlemen," written by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur (the last named being Miss Hayes' husband) Miss Hayes as Terry Scott and Merivale as Mr. Hamilton are members of a California jury sitting in judgment on a murder suspect.

Terry Scott and the Mr. Hamilton, the foreman, find romance. For the first time in years she knows the release from the endless demands of the picture producer whose secretary she is. Hamilton similarly finds in his jury service escape from the shackles which success puts upon man.

Others serving on the jury find their own diversions and anxieties. A club leader frets over the certain mismanagement lesser women are visiting upon her affairs. An alert mortician solicits trade for his prized burial plots. A typewriter salesman canvases prospects. A stripling from Yale pursues his amours. A worried mother wonders what it will take to win her grumbling spouse's forgiveness for her absence.

Gilbert Miller, whose choice of actors has been favorably noted in other of his productions to play here, offers a company of distinguished players in support of Miss Hayes and Mr. Merivale. They include Evelyn Varden, William Lynn, Robert Keith, Roy Roberts, Connie Gilchrist, Joseph Sweeney, Pat Harrington, Martin Wolfson, Frank Conlan, George Watts, James Seeley, Jacqueline Paige and others.

DECIDE TO PERMIT BROADCAST OF GAMES

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—New York's three major league baseball clubs have decided to broadcast their games again in 1940, according to plans announced yesterday. The Giants and Yankees will air only home games while the Brooklyn Dodgers disclosed that games both at home and abroad will be broadcast.

DON NOT SATISFIED

ORLANDO, Fla. — (AP) — Don Padgett, slugging Cardinal catcher, said yesterday he was returning his 1940 contract to the St. Louis club unsigned.

Toledo Purchases 'Pinkey' Whitney

TOLEDO, O.—(AP) Purchase of Infielder A. C. "Pinky" Whitney, formerly with Philadelphia of the National league, was announced today by officials of the Toledo American Association baseball club.

Whitney, 33, of San Antonio, Tex., had a 1939 batting average of nearly .200 for 34 games. He probably will replace Fred Mullar at third base for the Mudhens, the announcement said. The purchase price was undisclosed.

Renaissance to Return Against Chuck's Team.

The New York Renaissance club, world's professional champion, will meet Chuck Chuckovits' Collegians in the feature game of a City Class A league basketball presentation at Mansfield high school Thursday, Jan. 29, league officials announced last night.

Due to other activities at the high school, the City league will be idle next week.

DON PADGETT RETURNS UNSIGNED CONTRACT

ORLANDO, Fla.—(U.P.)—The St. Louis Cardinals had another holdout problem on their hands today after Don Padgett, hard-hitting catcher, returned his proferred contract unsigned. Padgett, who hit .319 last season was believed to have been offered the same salary he got last summer.

He is one of five Cardinals still unsigned. The others are Joe Medwick, Curt Davis, Stu Martin and Lyn Lary.

REFUSES TO CONFIRM SIGNING OF CULLENBINE

NEW YORK—(INS)— Leo Durocher today refused to confirm reports that Roy Cullenbine, Detroit outfielder recently declared a free agent by Judge Landis, would sign with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Trade winds may start to blow today as the National league pilots prepare for the opening of their meeting tomorrow.

Despite the fact that both clubs announced that the deal had been called off, it was still rumored that the Dodgers are negotiating with the Reds for Catcher Ernie Lombardi.

Ohio State Cagers May Play In City.

THERE is a possibility that the present Ohio State cage club will appear in this city for an exhibition after the close of the Big Ten season . . . and the Renaissance's game with Chuck Chuckovits' Collegians at the high school Thursday, Feb. 29, should pack the gym, judging from the talk around town . . . By the way, Chuck demands $50 for every game he plays, and usually gets it.

OK'S RANDALL'S REQUEST FOR FALL RUNNING MEET

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Cleveland's North Randall track wrung from the State Ricing commission here yesterday a change in its early summer meeting dates and secured permission to stage another running race program Sept. 25-Oct. 12 if desired.

A threat by North Randall representatives to cancel a May 4-June 8 program previously awarded by the commission brought a change to May 22-June 22 dates. Beulah park backed up North Randall on grounds that its own April 20-May 18 schedule at Grove City would conflict.

FACE TOUGH OPPONENTS

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio's collegiate basketeers roar into the home stretch of the 1939-40 race today, with the pace-setting Wooster team facing a pair of tough opponents.

Forty contests, two in the Big Ten, 14 in the Ohio conference, and 14 with out-of-state foes, are on the week's program.

* * *

John Carroll of Cleveland, which meets Wooster Friday night, loomed today as a possible "giant killer" act. Notre Dame defeated John Carroll, 46 to 27 Saturday night at South Bend. A loss to Carroll would just about wreck Wooster's championship hopes in both the Ohio loop and state-wide races which the Scots are now leading.

In addition to John Carroll, Wooster meets Mt. Union Wednesday night. Muskingum, runner-up in the conference scrap, meets Denison and Case this week, and either is capable of giving the Muskies a real scrap.

Ohio university, which hopped from sixth to second place in the state-wide standings last week with wins over Muskingum and Xavier, has three contests on tap this week. The Bobcats meet Miami, Cincinnati and Ohio Wesleyan, with the latter club the greatest threat. Wesleyan scored a last-minute bucket Saturday to beat Miami, blasting that club out of second place.

Buckeye clubs have played out-of-state quintets 195 games this season and the Ohioans hold a slight edge, having won 99 while losing the other 96.

The week's schedule:

Tuesday: Wittenberg at Dayton, Hiram at Ashland, Capital at Heidelberg, Denison at Muskingum, Kent State at Bowling Green, Ohio Northern at Findlay, Kenyon at Otterbein, Miami at Ohio U., Giffin at Anderson, Tri-State at Defiance, St. Francis at Youngstown, Wilmington at Cedarville.

Wednesday: Wooster at Mount Union, Case at John Carroll, Wilmington at Ohio Northern.

* * *

Stratton to Return To Mound in Spring.

GREENVILLE, Tex. —(U.P.)— "Why I'm ready to go in there and pitch right now," said Monty Stratton, 27, Chicago White Sox pitcher, who lost his right leg two years ago.

When the Sox open spring training at their Pasadena, Cal., camp on March 4, Monty will have his chance. In exhibition games, he will try to show that a pitcher with plenty of "stuff" and lots of nerve can pitching winning ball in the majors while using an artificial leg.

SHOVE OFF FEB. 19

CHICAGO — (AP) — Manager Gabby Hartnett and Bob Lewis, traveling secretary, will be in charge of the first group of Chicago Cubs to head for spring training at Catalina Island, the Cub office said today. The group, made up largely of catchers and pitchers, will leave here Feb. 19.

DEMPSEY WILL REFEREE

COLUMBUS—(INS)— With Jack Dempsey as the referee, Cleveland's Eddie Simms will try again tonight to lift the Ohio heavyweight crown from the dusky brow of Jack "Buddy" Walker.

BRONCHIAL COUGHS DUE TO COLDS

To quickly relieve DISTRESS—when a cold affects your upper bronchial tubes—REMEMBER it takes MORE than "just a salve!" You need to rub your chest, throat and back with a warming, soothing "counter-irritant" like good old reliable Musterole which penetrates the outer layers of the skin and helps break up local congestion and pain. Its soothing vapors ease breathing. Used by millions for over 30 years! 3 strengths: Regular, Children's (mild) and Extra Strong, 40¢. Hospital Size, $3.00.

CHAPTER XXIX

Instead of heading for the hangars, Cameron turned off toward the east in the direction Rene had told him the officers' barracks were located.

In the graying dawn, he made out the low row of shedlike buildings and waited near them. He heard voices, some gay, some grumbling at having to turn out at such an unearthly hour.

Soon a truck rolled down the street, the headlights showing dimly. It stopped before the barracks. A single sound of the horn brought men tumbling from the building, and unobtrusively Bill joined them and ran toward the heavy vehicle.

He still had no definite plan, but was trusting that luck or inspiration would see him through. He fingered a heavy rock he had picked up and put in his pocket as, wedged tightly in the truck, he jostled and jolted along with the others.

Some were complaining, in half-drunken tones, at being routed at this hour for a patrol over the enemy lines. Other men, younger, were looking forward eagerly to the adventure.

"Poor Weber," he heard one officer say. "We wonder if he'll make it in time."

"Hans was in a pretty bad way the last I saw of him. Had had too much wine," another commented. "If he doesn't show up it will be too bad for him."

At the entrance to the hangars the truck stopped and the officers piled out. Cameron managed to edge himself into the [illegible] and was one of the last through the gate. He had plenty of time to observe the procedure. Each man, as he passed through, was long enough to give his name and have it checked off on a list there. Two soldiers with rifles fixed on their rifles stood guard.

Cameron heard the officer call out at him: "Name?"

"Hans Weber," [illegible] with a salute as he had seen other fliers do.

The officer checked his name and Bill passed [illegible].

The others were [illegible] selves in a line and as [illegible] a list in his hand was [illegible] name. Bill was startled [illegible] chosen one that started [illegible] as the list was alphabetical. As each name was called, the [illegible] of a plane was sung out and [illegible] ficer stepped forward briskly [illegible] the line of ships, propellers already turning, which were waiting with mechanics standing at attention beside them.

His name came last. Pausing just long enough to shout "Here!" as "Hans Weber" was called, he dashed forward and [illegible] Number twenty-six to which he had been assigned.

By the time he reached the plane, the pilot already was climbing into the cockpit, and gestured for Bill to climb into the observer's place behind him. A thrill shot through Cameron as he saw it was a dual control plane. He adjusted his helmet and goggles, tightened his muffler about his neck, and let his right hand slip into his jacket pocket where he had placed the stone.

There was a terrific roar as the planes turned, speeded their motors, and took off in regular order. He blessed his luck again that he was last in the line, and as the mechanics jerked out the blocks from under the wheels and leaped back and his pilot turned the ship to head toward the end of the runway, Cameron leaned forward, the rock grasped tightly in his hand, and swung with all his force back of the Nazi flyer's ear.

The pilot slumped over in his seat and Bill dropped back and took hold of the dual controls. The ship barely faltered for an instant, not long enough to be noticed in the gray of the early morning, and Bill headed for the far side of the field where he had told Claire and Rene to wait for him.

A horrible fear flashed through his mind. What if they weren't there? What if they had misunderstood and were at the far side of the field? If they were, then he'd have to take a long chance of taxiing back, hoping that they would leap up from their place of concealment and he could get them aboard before the ground crew discovered that anything was wrong.

His fears were groundless. [illegible] As he purposely waggled the plane in a zigzag as he and Rene had agreed upon for a signal, he saw the two of them rise up from the far edge of the field and start toward him.

Sensing his plane about to head [illegible], Cameron braked the [illegible] a dead stop and then clambered over into the front cockpit. He [illegible] the body of the limp [illegible] seat and dumped it [illegible] as Claire and [illegible] up to the side [illegible].

[illegible] Bill jerking and Claire [illegible] Rene managed to climb [illegible] front cockpit and a minute later Claire was beside him.

"Darling!" the girl cried. [illegible]

Across the [illegible] ground crew had [illegible] something was wrong and [illegible] a dozen men were running [illegible] them as Bill advanced [illegible] throttle, released his brakes and the Messerschmidt started to [illegible].

He gave it the gas as far as he dared and the motor roared in response. He began to pick up speed, heading directly at the soldiers running toward the ship. Several had rifles in their hands, and one was carring a machine gun. Sweeping in their direction, Bill laughed aloud as they flung themselves flat to avoid the charging plane. He hauled back on the stick then and the plane soared into the air.

Over the roar of the motors he heard the wail of a dozen sirens from the hangars as the alarm was sounded, and he knew that soon the air would be full of wireless warnings to the other ships of the squadron.

"I've got maybe ten minutes leeway," he told himself, "before they pick up the messages, verify them and learn the markings on this ship so that they know which one they are to chase. My smartest move is to start climbing, to get over them, as they'll come sweeping back at low altitudes, looking for me."

He pulled back on the stick and turned up his motor to all it would take. The ship climbed sharply at an angle that threw Claire and Rene violently back against their seats, but when Bill looked around for a moment they were grinning at him and waved.

Rene was taking the cover from a machine gun mounted on the fuselage back of the observer's cockpit, and Cameron took new courage. He knew the French lieutenant would give a good account of himself.

Up, up, up the plane lifted, the altimeter registering 19,000 kilometers, which Cameron swiftly computed to about 12,000 feet. His ears ached.

In the gray clouds of the morning, he knew visibility at that height would be low, so he leveled off and headed straight for France.

Leaning over the side, he saw a squadron of ships far below him. They had seen him too, and started to climb. But Bill was so high above them and headed in the opposite direction that he knew they never could catch him.

He had nothing to fear from anti-aircraft batteries, either, as he was well out of their range. The only worry now was being mistaken for a Nazi raider when he got over the French lines and falling victim to French fire before he could identify himself.

Then he remembered what Rene had told him while they were still in the woods. He had asked the Frenchman how he kept from being shot down by his own men.

"I simply waggle my wings and dip the nose of the plane three times," Rene told him.

When Claire leaned forward and punched him in the back about an hour later, Bill glanced back. Rene was gesturing wildly with his good arm and pointing down. Bill thought he saw his lips forming the name, "Metz."

He put the ship into a dive and looked back for confirmation. when Rene nodded, he dropped down rapidly. He leveled off at frequent intervals, waggled his wings, and dipped three times, then went into a new dive. Repeating this maneuver, he soon was circling down over what he made out as a large field, which he could plainly see in the light that now was streaming over the eastern horizon.

Circling slowly, the plane settled down. Its wheels touched the runway, it glided toward the hangars, and Cameron brought it to a stop.

He ripped off his helmet and goggles and Rene and Claire did the same as a squad of soldiers, bayonets fixed, came rushing toward them.

Rene was immediately recognized, and a cheer went up from the men who assisted the three of them from the plane.

"France!" Claire exclaimed. "We're safe, Bill,—all of us, thanks to you!"

He held out his arms and she rushed into them.

CASH LOANS

HOW YOU CAN BORROW $100 IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $4.46 A MONTH

No endorsers or guarantors needed — No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Prompt, private service.

You can get cash simply and promptly at Household Finance, if you can repay your loan in monthly installments. You may repay in very small installments if you prefer. Or you may make larger payments in order to pay up sooner. From the table below you choose the payment schedule which fits your own needs and your own income.

Pick your own payment schedule

Suppose you need $100 and can conveniently repay $9.46 a month. The table shows that your installments will repay a $100 loan from Household Finance in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $4.46 a month for thirty months will also repay a $100 loan.

Find the amount of cash you need in the first column of the loan table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment that you can conveniently make out of your regular monthly income.

Sooner you repay your loan the less it costs

Note, in the last column of the table, that you may make very small payments if you prefer. See also that the sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Four installments of $26.26 each, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full. The cost in this case is only $5.04. (All payments shown in the table include the charges. You pay nothing more.)

One rate to everyone

Household has only one price—the same rate to all, whether new customers or former borrowers.

What you do to borrow

All you do to get a Household Finance loan is acquaint us with your needs. We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) No questions regarding your credit are asked of friends or relatives, neither do you have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. You get your loan promptly, privately and without embarrassment.

Study the loan and payment table. See how you can repay the loan you need with a small part of your pay check. Then phone or visit us today. You will be under no obligation to borrow.

Shiloh, Union Open Play In Tournament Tonight

THE Lucas high gymnasium will be the battlefield tonight as two Richland county quintets launch the 1940 county tournament.

* * * * *

Only one contest is on tap, but county league fans will watch it with keen interest for its sends Shiloh, Twin-Valley league champion, against the tournament "dark horse," Union high. The clubs are scheduled to clash at 8 p. m.

* * * * *

Shiloh's Drummer Boys, sporting a record of 11 victories against one defeat, will enter the affray as favorites. Coach Jim Hunter's Union cagers, however, although they have only registered one triumph this season, are always troublesome in tourney play and may prove to be Shiloh's stumbling block.

Regardless of who emerges with the decision tonight, that combine still faces a major test when eight teams resume hostilities on the Senior high court Wednesday night.

The winner of the Shiloh-Union game must tackle Bellville high in the opener at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday. If Shiloh comes through with flying colors, the initial tussle at Senior high will toss together the two clubs picked to reach the finals.

* * * * *

The outcome of that contest will give spectators an idea of who plays the better ball—Richland county league teams or Twin-Valley league clubs. Bellville is the county league champions, and Shiloh, the 1940 Twin-Valley kings.

* * * * *

In the other affairs Wednesday, Ontario plays Plymouth at 7:30, Lucas faces Butler at 8:30, and Madison and Lexington tangle in the last game at 9:30.

Tygers End Season Against Massillon Here Tuesday Night

Mansfield Entertains Dangerous Tiger Quintet On Senior High Hardwood.

ANOTHER major task faces Coach Vern Hoffman and his Mansfield high hoopsters as they bring their regular season to a close on the Senior high court Tuesday night.

Massillon high's dangerous Tigers invade Mansfield tomorrow, and while its the first meeting between the two schools on the hardwood this season, rivalry is at a high peak.

The Tygers haven't forgotten the drubbing Massillon's crack football machine inflicted at Massillon last fall, and you may be sure the Mansfielders will be out to gain revenge.

Both clubs have lost to undefeated Canton McKinley, Mansfield taking the latest whipping, a 34-32 beating Saturday night, and the outcome of the contest is a tossup.

Big Horace Gillom, Massillon's all-Ohio football star, will be the man to halt, if the Tygers hope to emerge with the decision.

Last week the towering center collected 24 points as his teammates walloped Akron East, 50 to 19.

Hoffman expects to pit Russ Beer, 6-foot, five-inch center, against the Tiger ace. If Beer performs like he did against Canton Gillom may run into something a little too tough.

* * *

Buttermore, Massillon forward, will also bear watching. The sharpshooter is trailing Gallom in the scoring column and may break loose Tuesday.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

ARCADIA, Cal.—(U.P.)—The wildest charge of men and horses since General Picket cried "Come on boys!" is likely to take place here on Thursday when the starter rings the bell for the sixth running of the $50,000 Santa Anita derby.

* * *

There were 123 three year olds originally named for this mile and one eighth scramble. Up until today not a single owner (or a married one, for that matter) has scratched a single horse. Of course, 123 won't go but the chances are that upwards of 40 will. And this will set some sort of a record for a stake of this importance.

There is no such thing as an outstanding favorite for this race. In fact there is no such thing as a favorite. A man might just as well try to pick his favorite wave in the ocean as to attempt to distinguish between one or another of these distinctly undistinguished thoroughbreds.

To be quite truthful about the matter, and being as this race is to be run on Washington's birthday the truth is in order, the field is such a low caliber that anything that arrives on the track on time and with a saddle and a jockey, any jockey, has more than a fighting chance.

The closest approach to a favoriz is the team of three entry of the Milky Way farm. Mrs. Ethel V. Mars was not content to place her chances on a single hide and entered three separate horses—Tough Hombre, Gallahadian and Chatted. This entry takes care of any emergency. Between them they can run on a fast track, a heavy track or a street car track.

Other favorites with the local chumps are:

Neil McCarthy's Augury, a very sharp filly indeed.

C. S. Howard's Mioland, whose sire Mio D'Arezzo, was chased out of Germany because of illegal parking by another fire plug on the back stretch.

The derby is scheduled to be run late Thursday afternoon, but with such a ponderous field it may not get off until sometime Friday morning. There are only 18 stalls in the Electric Gate at Santa Anita and already the horses are drawing straws for room mates. It has been suggested that the track officials intall upper berths in the Gate.

* * *

It has also been suggested, by the same far seeing pioneers who thought up the berth control, so to speak, that traffic officers be stationed at the turns with additional stop and go signals at the half mile pole. This race will probably mark the first occasion on which more people will be routed onto the track than into the grandstand.

Tie For Lead In Golf Meet

Five Shotmakers Tie With 72's in Western.

HOUSTON, Tex. —(U.P.)— Four professional golf stars were bracketed with Amateur Harry Todd of Dallas, Tex., in a five-way tie for the lead today in the western open golf championship.

Par for the River Oaks Country club course had yet to be equaled as Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Clayton Heafner, Linville, N. C.; Jim Demaret, Houston; Bud Williamson, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Todd, toured the first 18 holes yesterday in 72's, one over the regulation figure.

* * *

Tony Longo, of Inwood, N. Y., pro, after a 34, one under par, on the first nine holes, dropped a chance to tie the leaders by taking a six on the par-four No. 18 hole. He was on the green in two and required four putts to get down for a back-nine 40.

Ferrell Wins Golf Tourney

Beats Russell, 2 to 1, in 36-Hole Finals.

TAMPA, Fla. — (AP) — Baseball and golf are becoming so closely allied it is difficult to realize that only a few years ago some managers were threatening to slap a fine on the first player they caught wielding a niblick.

The baseballer who doesn't golf now in his spare time is becoming almost a museum piece. Their annual tournament, which ended here yesterday, is destined within a very few years to become one of the winter's top sports events.

* * *

Wes Ferrell, now with the Brooklyns, won the title for the second straight time by licking Jack Russell in the 36-hole final, 2 to 1.

Bushnell Ace Leads Scorers

Bob Jones Rolls Up 356 Points In School League.

Averaging better than 19 points a game, Bob Jones, Bushnell center, won the individual scoring championship in the Grade School basketball league with 356 points.

The 13-year-old pivot star tallied 177 field goals and only two free throws in amassing his spectacular total. His brilliant scoring was a major factor in enabling his team to win the championship.

* * *

Mercer, Carpenter forward, annexed the runner-up post with an even 200 points, while George Thomas of Bowman finished in third place with 189 tallies. Players scoring 70 or more points follow:

	FG	FT	TP
Jones, Bushnell	177	2	356
Mercer, Carpenter	90	20	200
Thomas, Bowman	92	5	189
Scott, Bushnell	66	3	135

Dodgers Learn New Rule

Manager Leo Durocher, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, stands on the mound and demonstrates to his pitchers the new rule permitting the hurler to take a backward step before throwing the ball plateward. The Dodgers, first club to open spring training, are at Clearwater, Fla.

Honor New Mansfield Coach At Banquet Friday Night

A NEW Mansfield high school football coach will be honored by The News-Journal when it stages the annual grid banquet for the 1939 Tyger combine at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at 6:30 p. m. Friday.

He is Paul Snyder, who replaced Russell J. Murphy as the Tyger mentor last fall. Murphy resigned at Mansfield high to join the Cornell university coaching staff.

Snyder, former all-Ohio college lineman, who played at Wooster college, came to Mansfield from Mt. Vernon, where he had been head football and basketball coach. He started his coaching career at New London high.

Principal speaker for the annual dinner will be George Gauthier,, athletic director and head football coach of Ohio Wesleyan university.

Hall Defends Title At Armory Tonight

THE lightheavyweight championship of the wrestling world will hang in the balance tonight in the Armory ring when Stacy Hall, the magnificent young wrestling machine from Columbus, O., who holds the title meets George Becker, brilliant young challenger from New York City in a two out of three falls match with an hour and a half time limit under the rules of the Midwest Wrestling association.

The world's title holder and his dangerous challenger head a great four event mat card which will get under way at 8:30 o'clock and which ranks as possibly the finest that has been presented here.

On form the battle between Hall and Becker figures to be a close, hard fought out match every minutes of the way, and so evenly matched are the two men that a "break" either way may be the deciding factor and determine the next holder of the world's title belt.

Both are clean, fine sportsmen in the ring, both are noted for their speed and scientific knowledge of wrestling and local fans may feel assured that the match will be decided strictly on the merits of the two men.

Aside from the title match much interest centers tonight on the first appearance here of the grim masked matman known as "The Hun." Clad in black from head to foot and flaunting a huge white German Nazi swastika on his robe, "The Hun" will meet "Flash" Clifford of Louisville in the semi-final.

* * *

Another masked man, the Masked Marvel will meet "Bull" Marino of New York in a half hour tilt and the opening event will see Verne Heiser, local boy and former start at Ohio State making his professional debut against Ralph Akers of Flint, Mich.

Takes Third In Tourney

Handwark, Dintaman Collect 1005 Series to Gain No. 3 Spot In State Women's Tournament.

COLUMBUS Florence Handwark and Mary Dintaman combined for a 1005 series to give them third place today in the Class B doubles of the state women's bowling tournament as it reached the half-way mark.

Florence was the star of the Mansfield contingent, too, as she collected 1512 for third place in the B all-events, three pins behind the pace-setters who are tied at 1515. This pushed Donna Schuster of Mansfield, who bowled a week ago, into fifth place with her 1471.

Pauline Shively's 531 in the singles is seventh, just missing a spot among the leaders shown on the board. These girls are the last of Mansfield teams to bowl in the state tournament which will conclude March 3.

COLUMBUS (AP) New leaders were enthroned today atop six of the nine divisions in the women's tournament.

Millie Klier of Cleveland put on the greatest kegling exhibition yesterday as the four-week classic passed its half-way mark.

The Cleveland star posted a three-game total of 632 in singles, five pins better than last year's winning score, to take first place in Class A. Berry Burbrink, of Cincinnati was second with 594.

Millie Klier also rolled 537 in the team event and 596 in doubles to place first with 1765 in the Class A all-event division.

The sister combination of Dora and Lora McMillen of Cincinnati paced the Class A doubles with 1113, while trailing by one pin were Mildred Bailey and Rose Suchan of Cleveland.

Other new leaders included Violet Perry and Verne Wongroski of Toledo in Class B doubles with 1060; Marjorie Bressler of Toledo in Class B all-events with 1629 and Queen Beauty Salon of Columbus in Class B team with 2446.

* * *

Play will resume next week-end with a large delegation of Toledo bowlers leading a field from widely scattered Ohio cities onto the alleys.

Mid-Atlantic's Future Doubtful

YOUNGSTOWN—(AP)—The future of three clubs in the Mid-Atlantic baseball loop was in doubt today as league officials opened their annual meeting.

Springfield and Erie, Pa., have lost their 1939 sponsors and Akron officials are considering transferring their franchise unless suitable arrangements can be made for a ball park.

Canton, Youngstown, Portsmouth, Dayton and Charleston, W. Va., the other five teams in the circuit, are ready for the season, League President Elmer Daily said.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK —(AP)— The Louis-Godoy fight films were sharply edited for the South American trade—to make Arturo look his best. . . . Railroads operating ski trains out of New York say last year's biz will be more than doubled. . . . It now is warm enough in the far south for the Alabama baseball candidates to work outdoors. . . . If the Red Sox wanted to reveal the figures you'd probably find they paid nearer $50,000 than the reported $75,000 for Dominic DiMaggio.

BLITZKRIEG: Sonja Honey got so mad the other day when a Beantown paper gave her age as 30 she had her press agent send around photostatic copies of her passport, showing she is nearer 26.

* * *

Never heard of Olinder Trotter, did you? . . . Sure you didn't . . . he's Joe Louis' brother-in-law and he's making the local heavies behave around Minneapolis. . . . Billy Gillispie and Dick McKee, two Miami youngsters, are in the thick of the race as Don Budge's successor as the top amateur tenniser. . . . Michigan State coaches are seeing double and talking to themselves what with three sets of identical twins out for one sport or another.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR — Walter Stewart, Memphis commercial appeal: "When Judge Landis' birthday rolls around Benny McCoy should ask his mother to bake the judge a nice cake—one with 45,000 candles."

When 152-pound Davey O'Brien carried off all the top gridiron honors in 1938, every little guy in Texas must have heard about it . . . anyway, there are seven quarterback candidates out at Texas Christian and nary a one tops 160.

Hurlers Aided By New Rule

Permitted to Take Extra Step in Delivery.

BELLEAIR, Fla. —(AP)— Relief has been a long time a-coming for the baseball pitcher, and he has taken some hard knocks in the past 20 years, but the elders of the game at last are getting in a mood to help him stand off the batters.

At this meeting here yesterday the rules committee voted with only one dissenter to allow all of the pitchers in the country to rear back and take another complete step as they deliver the ball. That is the first really important move toward helping the hurler that has been made since the rule-makers began abolishing freak deliveries back in 1919.

* * *

The new rule, adopted in the course of a long session during which the rule makers fussed interminably and Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis fidgeted and crowsed in the presiding chair, will permit the pitcher almost complete freedom with one leg. There's only one thing he can't do now, and that is to step sidewise.

BOWLING SCORES

Weber, of the Westinghouse team collected a spectacular 658 to win individual scoring honors at the Meder alleys Sunday. He put together games of 182, 215, and 261 as he lead his team to a clean sweep over the Dominion Electric club in a special match.

The other Mansfield kegler to hit the 600 mark was Gump, who pounded out a 658 for the Mansfield No. 1 team of the Ohio Public Service league. The No. 1 club won three games from the Massillon No. 1 team.

TRADERS LABOR WITH FOREIGN TRENDS TODAY

Prices Parallel Wall Street's Mixed Opinions; Bonds and Commodities Uneven.

(By Associated Press)

Among those fractionally lower were U. S. Steel, United Aircraft, Eastman, Youngstown, Martin, Boeing, General Motors and New York Central.

Bonds and commodities were uneven. Foreign markets were steady in light dealings.

Chief factor in unsettling the operators was the sequestration of British holdings in 60 leading American stock by the British government.

Market observers continued to keep a weather eye on the progress of European bourses with special attention to the strength displayed in Paris.

The steady trend there was based, to a large extent, on reports of a new trade accord between France and Great Britain.

At the Theaters

THROUGH professing amazement over the interest in the details of his and Vivien Leigh's wedding plans, Laurence Olivier come through with the information that they are going to vacation in Nassau immediately after the close of their New York engagement, "Romeo and Juliet".

This will be around Aug. 5 and according to Olivier, the ceremony undoubtedly will be performed there. Which of couse, means that it will be on British soil . . . Mr. Olivier laughingly brags about inventing Greer Garson, the new screen star. It seems that a number of years ago in London when Olivier was directing a play, Miss Garson was in the cast, but was practically unknown. The play was a flop but it launched her on the road to success.

Alice Sings Once.

Alice Faye sings by special request in the production, "Little Old New York," which is showing at the Ohio theater. Originally there were no songs in the picture as the director intended to stress Alice's talents as an emotional actress. But he had reckoned without her fans. A deluge of letters from all parts of the country poured into the studio demanding that she sing at least one song in the picture, in which she shares top billing with Fred MacMurray, Richard Greene and Brenda Joyce. As a result Gordon was assigned to write a lusty rollicking melody for the actress who plays the Western belle. She sings "Who's the Beau of the Belle of New York?"

Unusual Setting.

Ernest Lubitsch has given a "Grand Hotel" flavor to the bustling Budapest street and little leather good and novelty shop that form the fascinating and unusual backgrounds of "The Shop Around the Corner" which is showing at the Madison theater. The leads, Margaret Sullavan and James Stewart, who are the co-stars, first met seven years ago at Princeton university. She was an unknown actress, appearing there in "The Artist and the Lady," and Stewart, a member of the Triangle club. Princeton drama society, was stage manager for the play.

Blondell-Douglas Team.

One of the season's gayest comedies, "The Amazing Mr. Williams," which is showing at the Park theater today and Tuesday, the film also brims with thrills and romance. Joan Blondell plays a mayor's secretary, and Melvyn Douglas, her fiance, is a supersleuth with more time for murder than marriage. Flaming with all the colorful intensity of men who dare death in the pursuance of duty, "Coast Guard" is a dramatic screen record of the United State Coast Guard and the men who serve.

With Jascha Heifetz, the world's most renowned violinist starred, "They Shall Have Music," comes to the Ritz theater Tuesday through Wednesday. This is a gripping story of human interest. The romantic roles are played by Andrea Leeds and Joel McCrea. The story is taken from life on New York's east side. Also introduced to the screen for the first time is the nine year old opera star, Jacqueline Nash, whose voice is said to be reminiscent of Galli Curci. The second feature is "Little Accident," with Hugh Herbert, Florence Rice and Baby Sandy.

$8,400 'SPLIT'

County Gets January Share of Sales Tax Money.

The county had received $8,400 today as its share of the state sales tax receipts for January.

The funds, which will be used for local government operation costs, will not be distributed until about March 15, County Auditory Norman L. Wolfe said.

Sales tax receipts are allowed to accumulate until each county subdivision has a large enough share due to make an allocation worth while, the auditor said.

Congress Delays Action on Relief, Studies Revision

DRIVE STARTS TO INCREASE APPROPRIATION

Campaign for More Money Expected to Delay Vote Till April or May.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Congressional action on relief appropriations has been postponed at the request of the administration, which wishes to study further—and perhaps revise upwards—budget estimates made by President Roosevelt in January, it was learned today.

Rep. Clifton Woodrum (D.) Virginia, in charge of relief appropriations in the house, disclosed that the relief bill probably will not be started on its way through congress until late in April or early in May.

Since the president submitted his budget estimate, which cut WPA and other relief agencies $600,000,000 under present expenditure, a vigorous campaign has been launched to increase the total.

"The appropriations committee will postpone consideration of the relief bill at the request of the administration, so that further study can be made," said Woodrum. "I do not understand that this means it will be increased—but that it is desired to study general conditions."

Mr. Roosevelt's budget estimate for WPA called for $1,125,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Congress appropriated $1,477,000,000 for WPA last year. Cuts also were recommended in National Youth administration and other relief funds.

The WPA, which was sharply cut last year, reduced its roll as much as possible last summer and increased them this winter. The rolls reached a peak on Feb. 7, with 2,287,467 persons on work relief.

While some members of congress are advocating repeal of the provision which required persons on WPA rolls for 18 months to take a 30 days "vacation" without pay, Woodrum insisted that restrictions adopted by congress last year have worked well.

Elimination of special grants for the federal theater project and similar specialized relief activities resulted in cutting off spreading the funds to many others, he said.

Woodrum said he was informed that the Workers Alliance, organization of WPA workers, suffered a heavy blow because of restrictions initiated by congress last year. When relief recipients found that the alliance could not fulfill promises to keep them in jobs, they quit paying dues, he said.

Return Fugitive To O. S. R., Treat His Frozen Feet

Philip Hudson, 20, Ohio State reformatory trusty who escaped from the residence of Chaplain M. W. Wappner last Thursday was back in the institution hospital today with his feet frozen and two years additional time to serve as penalty for his short fling at freedom.

Hudson was returned by reformatory guards from Toledo where he was picked up by police Saturday night with both feet frozen.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said he was receiving medical attention and that it was possible that his feet may have to be amputated.

Found by Toledo authorities on a downtown street, he said he had hitch-hiked his way from Mansfield following his escape when he went outside to empty garbage and failed to return.

Hudson was committed from Montgomery county to serve two concurrent sentences of 10 to 25 years for robbery. He had been granted a parole which would have become effective Jan. 25, 1941.

PLOT THWARTED

Leader of Fascist 'Gold Shirts' Jailed in Mexico City.

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—Atty. Gen. Genaro Vazquez announced today that a plot, which he said involved a leader of the "gold shirts" to overthrow the Mexican government with an armed rebellion had been thwarted.

Five leaders were taken into custody, the attorney general said, but were released by President Cardenas to signify confidence in the support of the Mexican people."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels, then bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up". Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25 and 35c.

Townsend Club Speaker Dies After Crash Near Mt. Vernon.

MOUNT VERNON, O.—(AP)—M. C. Brooks, 55, of route 2, Virginia, Ill., died today of injuries suffered in an automobile crash near here Sunday. The Townsend club speaker was riding in a car driven by Mrs. Rhoena I. Addis of Zanesville. It struck a concrete bridge during a snow storm. Mrs. Addis is being treated here for cuts and broken ribs.

17TH DISTRICT CAMPAIGN GOES INTO LAST WEEK

Beightler Admits Schorr Urged McGregor Backing; Grange Officer Backs Ashbrook.

The short campaign for congress in the 17th district moved into its last full week today with the two candidates — Byron B. Ashbrook, Democrat, and J. Harry McGregor, Republican — concentrating their campaigning in the southern counties of the district.

McGregor is scheduled to speak at a rally in Coshocton Wednesday night and will make his final appearance before the election in Mansfield Saturday night. The rally here, which will be held in G. O. P. headquarters in the Warner building, was postponed from Thursday night. The special election is a week from tomorrow.

Before leaving Mansfield after a talk here Saturday afternoon, Ashbrook flayed McGregor for his opposition to the Roosevelt administration and said he was "not surprised, but extremely pleased" with the endorsement his (Ashbrook's) candidacy had received from Harry Caton, national Grange official and farm leader in Ohio.

Ashbrook, in a prepared statement, said Caton had left his sick-bed at Coshocton to speak in his behalf and to criticize McGregor for his stand against New Deal measures.

State Highway Director Robert S. Beightler admitted today that Ed D. Schorr, state G. O. P. chairman, had sent out letters to state highway workers urging them to support McGregor for the nomination in the primary two weeks ago.

Capt. Victor Hunt Harding, chairman of the national Democratic congressional committee, made the charge Saturday in a talk at a rally for Ashbrook in Mansfield, adding that he had warned Schorr and McGregor that the federal department of justice would be asked to investigate if the practice is repeated in the present campaign.

Beightler said he had seen one of the letters from Schorr to workers, but denied that it asked for campaigning in McGregor's behalf. He added that he did not believe the letters went to employes in the classified civil service.

GET ROAD CASH

Townships Receive $400 Each of Gas Tax Funds.

Richland county's 18 townships received $400 each today from the state in gasoline tax money for road building and maintenance.

The allocation, totaling $7,200, followed one for $10,000 which went to the county road fund Saturday.

Because of the heavy demands on road funds for fighting heavy snow since the first of the year, the county and most of the townships need road money badly, County Engineer Howard C. Sword said.

The allocation to the county averted the necessity of borrowing to pay road workers and the township funds were expected to help them pay their bills incurred in fighting snow.

PROBES DEATH OF STUDENT, 16

Coroner Delays Verdict In Hanging of Columbus Boy.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Admitting that he was perplexed, Coroner E. E. Smith said today it would be another 24 hours before he would return a verdict in the hanging of 16-year-old Wendel Dean Postle, son of the dean of Ohio State university's dental school.

Shortly before Postle, an Arlington high school athlete, was found hanging from a drainpipe in the basement of his home, he had seen a movie in which a person was almost hanged, but saved when his feet touched a window sill.

Coroner Smith said it was possible the 220-pound athlete attempted to duplicate the movie feat. Smith said he had been unable to discover any suicide motive.

GALION—Beginning the 15th season of Sunday afternoon concerts under the management of Bessie Todd, a program was presented yesterday afternoon at the Senior high school auditorium by Mansfield and Crestline talent.

This was the first of the series to be given this year.

LaVergne Stone, pianist, and Evangeline Stone, violinist, both of Mansfield, were assisted by a boys' quartet and girls' sextette of Crestline high school in presenting the entire program.

Members of the sextette were Sylvia Ermi, June Kreps, Dorothy Marshall, Maxine Coleman, Donna Hoffman and Mary Dickinson. Comprising the quartet were: Francis Smarto, first tenor; Robert Linn, second tenor; Carl Bayer, baritone; Paul Kindinger, bass. The accompanist was Albert Smith.

ELECTION POLICE PROGRAM DRAWN

1940 Voting To Be Subjected To Thorough Scrutiny.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—While the presidential races quickened following the selection of national convention dates, a vigorous policing of 1940 elections by a special senate committee was promised today by Senator Gillette (D., Ia.)

He called an organization meeting of the four other senators appointed by Vice President Garner to the campaign investigating group.

"I don't care who it hits or where it hits, it's to the interest of all American citizens to keep elections clean," Gillette said. "I'm sure it's the intention of this committee to do a thorough job."

DIES AT 'HORROR' MOVIE

WAVE OF MINOR CRIMES STRIKES OVER WEEK-END

Four Burglaries, Three Car Thefts, Purse-Snatching Reported to Police.

Mansfield was swept by a wave of minor crimes over the week-end in a series of robberies including the theft of three automobiles, four burglaries and a purse snatching.

One of the stolen cars was recovered and a man arrested for stealing coal was sent to jail for 30 days when he pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to a charge of petit larceny.

A burglar entered the Public library on West Third street, ransacked the building and looted office desks of $11 in change.

The robbery was reported at 6:15 a. m. today by Edward Kovich, 405 West Fifth street, the janitor, when he found the side door open. Police said entrance was gained by prying the screen off a washroom window.

At the D. and W. Auto Wrecking company, 209 North Adams street, O. J. Wise, the proprietor, told police that a quantity of junk and automobile parts were stolen over the week-end. He discovered the loss this morning but was unable to give an estimate of the stolen goods.

Ken Woodman, 275 West First street, told police yesterday that his room was entered between 7 p. m. Saturday and 5 a. m. Sunday while he was working and $12 taken from a bank book in a bureau drawer.

Three automobiles were taken Saturday night.

Stolen for 10 Minutes.

William Tawse, 131 Glenwood boulevard, recovered his machine less than 10 mintues after the car had been stolen from in front of 67 Penn avenue, where he had been visiting.

He told officers that he was leaving the house when he saw the machine being allowed to coast down the street. Police were called and the machine was located on Gerke avenue, where the driver had abandoned it. There was no key in the car.

George McKinley, 154 West Dickson avenue, reported the theft of his car from South Diamond street, near South Park Saturday night, and Merle Williams, R. D. 3, Mansfield, said his car was taken from North Diamond street, near East Fourth.

Mrs. C. W. White, 51 Boughton avenue, called police Saturday night after her purse had been grabbed by a youth as she was within sight of her home.

She told officers that the boy, wearing a dark hat and coat, grabbed her pocketbook, containing $1.50, and ran west on Herman avenue.

Edward Abromatis, whose address was not given, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail today when he pleaded guilty to the theft of 100 pounds of coal from the Scott Hagerman Coal company, 300 North Diamond street.

Police said they arrested him on an alley just north of West Sixth street near Franklin avenue Saturday night.

MUSICIAN DIES

Wiedoft Gave Rudy Vallee First Lessons On Saxaphone.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Death today had overtaken Rudolph Wiedoft, 46, the patron saint of saxophone players and the man who gave Rudy Vallee his first lessons on the instrument.

A musical pioneer, Wiedoft revived the then little-played saxophone 20 years ago and wrote numerous saxophone solos including "Saxophobia," a musical gospel for saxophonists.

DIES IN WEST

John Ost Was Former Barber Here; Has 2 Sisters In City.

John Ost, 64, former barber here and brother of two Mansfield residents, died Saturday evening at his home in Compton, Cal. after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Ost at one time operated a barber shop at the corner of Sixth and Diamond streets, and left Mansfield a number of years ago. He is survived by his wife, two sisters, Mrs. W. R. Campbell and Mrs. Val Gimbel both of Mansfield, two sons and a daughter.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at Compton, Cal.

NEARLY DONE

Workmen Completing Repairs to Water Lines.

City workmen today were putting the finishing touches on repairs to three water line breaks—the last of the recent leaks to be repaired.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said water department crews were making the repairs on North Main street near Sixth, on West Fourth street near Sycamore and on West First near Distl avenue, a new break which occurred yesterday.

Repairs on all lines are expected to be completed today, he said. Meanwhile, however, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, who Saturday ordered the chlorine content in the water supply boosted as a safeguard against contamination, said that the extra amount would be added until all danger was past.

He explained that the additional chlorine was ordered only as a "precautionary measure" and might be continued until the frost leaves the ground.

ONTARIO BOOKS SPEAKERS FOR FARM INSTITUTE

Two-Day Agricultural Event Opens Thursday; Musical Numbers Arranged.

Another in a series of institutes being held in Richland county is the Ontario Community Institute set for Thursday and Friday at Springfield township school.

Sessions are to be held Thursday afternoon and evening and Friday morning, closing with a 1 p. m. session Friday.

Speakers for the four sessions will be Mrs. Paul B. Maxwell of Mt. Gilead, and James D. Wyker of North Jackson, both members of the state institute staff.

Opening at 1 p. m. Thursday, the first session will include a talk by Mrs. Maxwell on "Streamlined Dispositions, Plus Vision," and a talk by Wyker on "Our Economic Salvation." Carl Haefeli, jr. will play "Gavotte," as a violin solo, and the Springfield township Farm Women's club will also take part in the program. R. B. Smith will lead the devotions.

Oliver Rinehart, institute vice president, will preside over the second session at 8 p. m. Thursday which in addition to talks by the guest speakers, includes selections by Smart's Accordion band and musical numbers by Billy, Aileen and Joan Turner.

The Ontario Mothers' club will take part in the first Friday session at 10 a. m. Music will be furnished by Charles and Chester Hellinger, and Rev. E. H. Thompson, pastor of the Ontario Community church, will act as chairman.

The Friday afternoon session opens at 1 p. m., following a lunch in the school cafeteria. George B. Ganyard, county extension agent, is scheduled to speak in addition to Mrs. Maxwell and Wyker. The Sandusky Township Women's club will take part in this session, with Robert Walker, institute president, as chairman.

Found Quick Way to Relieve Constipation and Dizziness

Fredericktown resident also suffered from biliousness, stomach upset, and pains in back and limbs, all due to being constipated.

MRS. ELIZABETH VOLZ

"I had been a victim of constipation for quite a while, and this was causing many different troubles which kept me miserable day and night," said Mrs. Elizabeth Volz, of Fredericktown, near Mansfield, to the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store.

"This constipation brought on attacks of dizziness, and when I stooped over I'd have to steady myself. Spots floated before my eyes, my tongue was coated, and I'd awaken many mornings with a headache, coated tongue, and terrible taste in my mouth.

"In addition to the above the constipation kept my stomach so upset there was hardly a meal that didn't disagree with me, and seemed the food lay heavy, turned sour, and felt like I had a lump in my throat which I could neither swallow nor throw out, and sometimes I had awful pains across my back.

"Nearly every day I heard someone speaking well of Vendol and telling how it had relieved him. I knew I should be taking something to get myself in better condition, so decided to try Vendol, and now I know I made no mistake, because it gave quick relief from my constipation.

"With the constipation relieved, then all signs of dizziness passed off, my sleep became restful, I enjoyed hearty meals which seemed to agree with my stomach better, because the gas, sourness, choking feeling, and all those other symptoms which made me miserable were relieved.

"Vendol did a lot for me, and I believe it will help everyone suffering like I did, so I advise them to give it a chance to help them."

Start on Vendol today. Get the facts about it from the Vendol Man who is daily at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts. See for yourself what it will do.

GERMANS SINK DESTROYER, 157 OF CREW LOST

Britain Counters With Claim of Sinking 2 Nazi Vessels in Week-End Sea War.

Britain, however, anticipated Norway's diplomatic fire with a cross-complaint, demanding to know why Norwegian inspectors failed to discover that the British prisoners were aboard the Altmark while the German ship was being accorded the privileges of a belligerent's merchant ship —that is, right-of-way through Norwegian territorial waters.

The British answer and counter-demand were made Saturday, but disclosed only yesterday.

Nazis Hail 'Revenge' Sinking of Destroyer.

(By International News Service)

BERLIN — German newspapers today hailed the torpedoing of the British destroyer Daring as proof of the reich's determination to avenge the allegedly "criminal" boarding of the German steamer Altmark in a Norwegian fjord.

At the same time, the prediction was voiced that Norway will bluntly reject Britain's demand that the Altmark and her crew be interned for duration of the war.

So far as the incident itself was concerned, German press and officialdom kept up a drumfire of criticism, giving wide prominence to a charge by the Altmark's captain that sailors from the British destroyer Cossack who boarded his vessel "looted" his quarters and those of his officers before quitting the ship with 326 British prisoners of war.

On all sides, threats of dire revenge upon England for her outright violation of international law in entering Norwegian territorial waters were heard, but there was no official indication of the nature of these reprisals.

Continued pressure was brought to bear on all neutral nations, with particular stress on Norway, for the failure of any action by Norwegian gunboats stationed in Josing Fjord, scene of one of the most dramatic incidents of the war.

The Altmark incident, it was learned, may have an important bearing on the scheduled visit to Berlin of United States Assistant Secretary of State Sumner Welles.

The German government may hand him a dossier citing the Altmark case in a general indictment of British methods of warfare ever, extended westward across northern Ohio. Street cars were stalled in Akron when power lines broke under the ice and snow covering. Trees fell across wires at Canton.

Rainfall and snow combined made .55 of an inch of precipitation in Mansfield. There was at least three inches of snow, however, in the Mansfield district.

Southern Ohio was threatened by floods as heavy rain pushed ice-clogged rivers and creeks out of their banks. State route 666 near Zanesville and route 75 between Ironton and Jackson wre covered with water. The Ohio river rose 4.2 feet Sunday and was expected to continue to rise at Cincinnati.

Weather forecasters said the flood threat in the Ohio river valley would not be serious unless rains continue and the temperature remains above freezing for several days.

Light rain changing to snow was forecast for tonight in the Mansfield area and more snow is expected to follow Tuesday, the weatherman said.

Injured in the accident late Sunday on route 30 west of the city were Miss Dorothy Riddle, 31, of 118 Parkwood boulevard, driver of the car; Miss Lucille Baker, 27, of 205 West Third street; Harold Snyder, 27, and LaVerle Lee, 26, both of Loudonville.

They were treated at General hospital and Miss Baker was admitted. She received a possible leg fracture and face and scalp lacerations. The others had minor cuts and bruises.

a slate of 16 delegates-at-large, each to have one-half vote at the convention. Others on the committee are Charles Sawyer and Mrs. Mildred Jaster, national committee members; Earl Hanefeld, central committee chairman, and Arthur L. Limbach, executive committee chairman.

Forth-four district delegates, each with a full vote, will be selected within the congressional districts.

Besides agreeing to support Roosevelt for a third term, if he runs, and choosing Senator Donahey as "favorite son," the party leaders named Sawyer as "second choice favorite son," and endorsed Donahey for re-election.

The committees also settled two county factional disputes by recognizing Ray T. Miller, former Cleveland mayor, as Cuyahoga county chairman in place of Burr Gongwer, and choosing W. B. Kilpatrick of Warren, as Trumbull county "boss" over Leroy Marceau.

Meanwhile, a trace of discord stirred in the Republican ranks as former Gov. Harry L. Davis scored State Chairman Ed Schorr for asking party leaders to express preference from a list of potential candidates for U. S. senator and state auditor.

"It is certainly no part of the duty of a party chairman . . . to nominate candidates," Davis said in a letter to Schorr.

"I for one do not propose to question the good judgment of the rank and file of the members of our party, and I can not therefore agree to join a plan clearly designed to evade both the letter and the spirit of the open primary system."

Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland and Dudley A. White of Norwalk, 13th district congressman, are the only announced Republican candidates for the senate nomination. Joseph T. Tracey, former state auditor, and Harold M. Fross, Clary county auditor, are seeking the state auditor nomination.

Republicans Set Up Economic Plan.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Recommendations for aiding American industry and achieving a balanced budget in 1942 were contained today in 11 "guiding principles" offered the Republican party for possible inclusion in its national platform.

Reporting on a two-year survey, a special program committee of more than 200 Republicans pictured the New Deal as "misunderstanding economic America" and falling into "fatalism of outlook."

It outlined the Republican position as favoring an expanded "free enterprise" in the belief that "our private economy has not come to a dead end."

The 28,000-word document will be available to the platform committee at the June 24 convention. There is no indication whether the proposals actually will be incorporated in the platform, since they are merely advisory and since creation of the program committee—headed by Dr. Glenn Frank—was attended by disagreement among party leaders.

Garner Enters Name In Oregon Primary.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — In a third direct contest with President Roosevelt on the third term issue, Vice President John M. Garner today had decided to enter his name in the Oregon presidential primary.

Garner already has entered his name in the Wisconsin (April 2) and Illinois (April 9) primaries in which local Democrats entered slates of delegates pledged to a third term for the president. He will send his name into Oregon's May 17 contest within the next few days.

SCANDINAVIANS LOSE HEAVILY

The result is a vivid contrast to conditions during the World war.

On the profits of the last war, Sweden, Norway and Denmark built a merchant fleet which, combined, was the second largest in the world. It totaled 6,319 ships, totalling 7,672,649 tons.

Today, figures show a loss in less than five months war through Jan. 31—of more than 80 ships making up 225,000 tons, and the war trade shows no indication of offsetting the loss.

The nature of Scandinavian imports makes it imperative for them to continue their prewar commerce with both countries, equally for needed imports and for the means with which to pay for them.

Germany, however, is crippling shipping to England and France by submarine and plane, and secret mine-fields laid by both sides have taken additional toll.

England and France, on the other hand, have cut off the heavy transit trade from abroad which formerly was carried to Germany in Scandinavian bottoms.

As a result of declining commerce, prices on all imported goods in the Scandinavians—chiefly textiles, machinery, clothing, shoes, coal, minerals, and raw materials —have soared for the last six months, with staggering effect on the consumer public.

Direct trade with Germany, as distinguished from the carrier trade, has remained untouched for the neutrals through the Russo-German pact keeping the allies out of the Baltic. The reich thus is assured of its normal supply of iron ore and wood products.

It was felt that regardless of where the advantage lies in the war on shipping, even a partial Russian victory in Finland could mean only that Scandinavian trade with Germany must continue. This was believed to be the reason why Germany dropped her Finnish interests in exchange for the Russo-German pact.

As a result, the Scandinavians regard the Finnish war as deciding also whether they shall have liberty of economic action. They are grateful for foreign aid to Finland as a measure defending the certain status of their neutrality rights and trade.

MISS WALKER, 86, TAKEN BY DEATH

Lived In Mansfield 36 Years; Funeral Services Tuesday.

Miss Elizabeth A. Walker, 86, of 117 Poplar street, died Sunday afternoon at the Hammond convalescent home, 350 Park avenue west. She was born Oct. 17, 1853, in Bellville and had been a resident of Mansfield 36 years.

Surviving Miss Walker are three nephews, Leonard Hutzelman of Mansfield; Clyde Allen of Greensburg, Pa. and Aubrey Allen of Mansfield. Miss Walker was a sister of the late Mrs. Henry Hutzelman.

The body was removed to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. James L. Boyer of the First United Brethren church officiating. Burial will be in Bellville cemetery.

MOTHER DIES

verdict, I'll order her released unless he recommends holding her," the prosecutor said.

Coroner Winbigler told The News-Journal later that he had no intention of bringing a charge or asking that Mrs. Bowerman be detained in jail.

Bowerman, was stabbed twice in the neck with a pocket knife, one of the wounds severing his jugular vein. He was a bricklayer's helper at the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company.

In her statement to Marriott and Sheriff E. P. Long, Mrs. Bowerman said her husband had been quarreling with her during the evening and grabbed her by the throat when she put on her jacket and threatened to leave him. It was then she stabbed him, she said, with a knife she had in her jacket pocket.

Allen Fisher, 33, a roomer at the Bowerman home, said he came into the house and saw the Bowermans struggling on the floor after Bowerman had been stabbed. Fisher called an ambulance, but Bowerman was dead before it arrived.

Mrs. Bowerman had marks on her throat, a deep scratch on her face and a bump on her head, the prosecutor said.

Bowmerman's body was removed to the Jones funeral home. Funeral arrangements were incomplete today, pending the arrival of a sister from Cleveland.

Eight Arraigned In Bucyrus Court, One Sent To Pen

BUCYRUS—Judge C. U. Ahl sentenced one person to the Ohio penitentiary, placed five on probation, and set dates for hearings of two others, when seven men and one woman were arraigned before him this morning on grand jury indictmnts.

James Sheldon, 66, was given an indetermined sentence at the Ohio pen when he pleaded guilty to charges of forgery, but Judge Ahl recommended that he be sent to the London Prison farm due to his age.

Pleading not guilty to charges of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, Joseph E. Taylor was placed on bond of $2,500 and March 15 was set as date for his hearing. Floyd Orewiler was placed under bond of $500 when he pleaded not guilty to charges of failure to provide for minor children. Date of his hearing was set for March 19.

Five other persons who pleaded guilty to their charges were placed on probation for one year. They are Miss Betty Bonebrake of Bucyrus, larceny; Calvin Paxton, assault and resisting an officer; William Palter, Galion, breaking and entering; Donald Montee, Nevada, receiving stolen property, and Kennard Williams, Whetstone township, breaking and entering.

OPEN DEBATE ON TRADE PROGRAM

Dems Join Republicans in Opposing Treaties; Bitter Fight Foreseen.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—With a small band of Democrats joining the Republicans in opposition, house members lined up today for one of the biggest battles of the session —renewal of the administration's reciprocal trade program.

Both sides claimed victory. They agreed, however, that whatever the outcome, the trade pacts will be in issue in the election campaign, for President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull have made the program a keystone of their foreign policy.

Leaders decided to start debate late in the afternoon and to let it continue throughout the week on a resolution extending the program for three years after its June 12 expiration date.

Rep. Coffee (D., Neb.) asserted that 40 Democrats would vote with the Republicans on an amendment to require senate ratification of each trade pact. The present law lets the president and the state department conclude the agreements.

Rep. Boland of Pennsylvania, the Democratic whip, expressed the view that Coffee's amendment and all others would fail.

Some of those leading the Republican fight said there was no chance of killing the entire measure in the house. Their hope, they said, centered on the senate ratification amendment and on arousing popular opposition to the point where the senate would defeat the program.

Coffee asserted that if his amendment were adopted, he would vote for approval of the extension measure.

REDS HAMMER AT PRIZED GOAL

towns are north of the fort.

(Loss of Koivisto would be a heavy blow to the Finns because its coastal defense artillery has been turned inland at times to harrass Russian lines of communication.)

"The enemy keeps retreating," the Russians reported.

(The Finns have admitted only the loss of some advance posts of the Mannerheim defenses.)

The Russians asserted they had captured "475 defensive fortifications, including 92 iron and concrete forts" during the past week Feb. 11 to 18). Intensitity of the Russian drive was seen in the Soviet claim 313 of these Finnish fortifications fell in two days, Feb. 17 and 18.

(The Finns said they had shot down 24 enemy planes, bombed congested enemy columns and concentration points Saturday.)

Finns Prepare For 'Stone Wall' Stand.

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN—(U.P.) Strong Finnish reinforcements have arrived for a stone wall stand in the second section of the Mannerheim line, direct advises from Helsinki said today.

The reinforcements were thrown into action at once on key parts of the front all the way from the Gulf of Finland, on the right flank, to Lake Vuoksi over toward the eastern end of the Mannerheim line.

Arrival of the reinforcements permitted relief of the exhausted men who for days and even weeks had stood against the overwhelmingly more powerful red army's shock troops, tanks, airplanes and artillery.

Advices said that the Finnish troops had retired in full order from the first line of the Mannerheim defenses to the second line which they now held. The retirement was effected without interruption from Russian artillery, which might have been expected to blast all roads and trails to break up the movement.

Exact positions of the Finns in the second Mannerheim line were unspecified, but it was reported that the coastal batteries on Koivisto Island, at the right of the Finnish line, and the Finnish positions along the Taipale river, on the left, were part of it.

Russian forces in the Karelian Isthmus were estimated at Helsinki at 20 divisions, from 300,000 to 400,000 men, with 500 airplanes in support. It was estimated that only 200,000 of the Russians had taken part in the offensive so far.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1940

The pedestrian may have the right of way in crossing the street—but at the hospital he must wait his turn.

The spring that will be so welcome in the United States is dreaded in Finland—where winter is apparently staving off annihilation.

Farmers will be called upon to answer 232 census questions—which may interfere rather seriously with the spring planting.

Many Employed In Mansfield Stores

ONE BIG EMPLOYER in Mansfield, seldom fully appreciated, is that listed as "mercantile employment"—in other words, the stores of this city.

Next to industrial employment, the almost two thousand jobs provided in operating Mansfield stores ranks second in importance in distribution of salaries and wages to employes.

Not only do the retail merchandising activities of Mansfield require the services of this army of workers but these stores are large taxpayers, liberal supporters of civic projects, and their proprietors, managers and employes are important factors in many phases of community life.

The population growth of Mansfield in recent years has also brought rapid advances in the scope of retail merchandising in the city, and progressive merchants have kept pace with increasing requirements of a larger city and an expanding trade area.

Even with complete stocks and wide variety of merchandise, however, there is still an inclination among at least a few Mansfield people to do a considerable part of their buying in some other city, just as a few Clevelanders shop in "New Yawk" and some New Yorkers prefer to patronize the smart shops in London or Paris.

While individual cases of the several who are listed among acquaintances as "nothing in town is good enough for them," are not of serious moment, it can be readily understood by a vast majority of the thoughtful people of Mansfield that community life is reciprocal—that the earning power and welfare of each is dependent on others—that industrial payrolls, professional income, commissions for services, and money paid to officials, teachers and other public employes, can help many other persons to find jobs and to benefit the community as a whole, if all possible buying is done in Mansfield stores.

"I bought this in a Mansfield store" might well be made the prideful assertion of every person who earns a living from either private or public employment, performing professional services or operating a business in this community.

Turkish vs. Virginia Tobacco

GREAT is force of habit. Smokers may not know what their tobacco's made of, but they know what they want. So one of Great Britain's shrewd little war plans is said to be going awry.

The idea was to switch the British tobacco trade from American to Turkish tobacco. Not that the British government had anything against Uncle Sam or the American product; it merely wanted to please the Turks, its new allies, and to help them in their praiseworthy desire to swap tobacco for war supplies.

But as many Britons and Americans foresaw, John Bull ran into trouble. The plain people of England have been smoking American tobacco ever since George Washington and his fellow-Virginians shipped it to them. They find Turkish tobacco disagreeable while Virginian is sweet on the tongue and in the nostrils. Canadians are like that, too. So, although the momentous question is not yet entirely settled, American tobacco raisers feel more cheerful.

Many Amateur Woodsmen

A SPORTSMAN'S show brings out a lot of people never suspected of interest in hunting or fishing. They watch the stunts of the canoers, the log rollers, the hunting dogs, the expert marksmen, the wood choppers, and all the rest. They examine boats, log cabins, fishing tackle and tents. They look at all the wild animals, stuffed and alive. They talk with guides and Indians and others and have a wonderful time.

It's all evidence of the growing interest in the outdoors, says an associate manager of such a show. Fortunately the enjoyment of the outdoors is attainable even for many stay-at-homes. Bird feeding stations just outside the windows, picnic stoves and tables in parks, crowds following wild-flower trails or looking at the stars or tramping in forest preserves, are proof that steam heat and motor cars, instead of turning us away from nature, have actually awakened a new interest in getting back to it.

More Attention to Foot Ailments

ACCORDING to an Albany, N. Y., physician, Abraham Lincoln was the man who first had the wisdom to commission a chiropodist in the United States army. Lincoln himself had a good deal of discomfort with his own large and bony feet. It made him considerate of the men who had to take long marches in all sorts of weather and who didn't have much opportunity to care for tired, aching, cold feet.

A dictionary defines chiropody as the treatment "especially of minor ailments" of the feet—but it is difficult to imagine a foot ailment that seems "minor" to the victim. The field for efficient chiropody has grown rapidly in recent years, not only in attention to [illegible] of civilians as well, and a surprising large number of people make regular appointments with [illegible] as in other professional service.

Billions for Security

DURING the past [illegible] have purchased [illegible] worth of ordinary life insurance. That [illegible] annuities or group insurance.

That gives some idea of what $27,000,000,000 means. And it gives you an idea [illegible] and purchasing power.

Regret is being expressed in some quarters over the apparent scarcity of "parlor stories"—but then, it must be remembered, there are comparatively few parlors nowadays.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — So hard did Secretary of State Hull trample on the toes of Russia's Ambassador Constantine Oumansky at their recent conference that almost any sort of a howl might have been expected.

Neither Ambassador Oumansky nor Secretary Hull said anything officially after the conference. But it was a hot session, authoritative sources report. This is the story as it is being told here—

Oumansky had plenty to kick about on behalf of his country, and probably had been told pretty forcefully to do some kicking. This country has not even tried to hide its hope that Finland will knock Stalin's legions into the Volga.

But the "kick-off" incident seems to have been a speech by Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson in New York before the state bankers' association. He referred to Finland as an "outpost of modern civilization." Presumably beyond Finland was only barbarism.

"Again," said Johnson in the speech, "the world beholds the proof of the age-old axiom that a free man is worth at least a dozen serfs." He referred to Finland's foes as the "forces of bigotry and oppression" where "politics and purges stymie the officers in command and blind submission dominates the men in the ranks."

White House Approval.

WITH such stinging phrases in his mind, the smallish, trimly-built Oumansky swept into the state department. Doubtless he knew, as all Washington knows, that important speeches by Louis Johnson and other members of the little cabinet are usually passed on by the White House before delivery. That added to the sting.

Hull had a caller, so Oumansky had to wait 15 minutes. Further indignity.

At last into the secretary's office he strode.

Hull, as usual the polite southern gentleman first, the hard voiced diplomat second, arose and asked Oumansky to sit down.

"I will not sit down," said Oumansky icily. "This is not a social call. I am here on business. I have come to protest."

"To be sure," said Hull, sitting down to await the blast.

"We have been insulted," snapped Oumansky, whose perfect English, according to some accounts, wavered at points.

"We are a civilized nation. We are not serfs. We are a free people. I protest at these insults."

'We'll Pigeon-Hole It.'

HULL, whose soft brown eyes conceal a Tennessee crust as hard as Russia's best tank armor, listened to the outburst, then followed with one of his own, in words parallel to the following:

"Mr. Ambassador, ever since Russia was recognized by this country in 1933 this country has filed protest after protest with your country." (We have it that he did not name them, but hot in his mind no doubt was recollection of the cavalier treatment of U. S. Ambassador Steinhart when he sought to gain information of the "City of Flint" held at Murmansk.)

"Your country, Mr. Ambassador, seems to have a pigeon-hole as big as a wastebasket into which these protests go, for we never receive a reply from you.

"Well, this country is going to start a pigeonhole of its own, a big red pigeon-hole. And this protest is the first thing to go into it."

That ended the interview. What further Oumansky said has not come to us. Oumansky left the office, told reporters he had come only to discuss current events with Secretary Hull. The secretary, asked if the interview had been "satisfactory," declined to comment. But reports in official circles indicate he thought it was satisfactory, very satisfactory.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Feb. 19, 1920.

Publicly subscribed reward fund in the Ethel Dudley murder case passed the $3,000 mark.

New stock issue in the Mansfield Sheet & Tin Plate company was selling rapidly, it was announced.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dickson, 111 Blanche street.

Chinese new year was observed, with "Kong hey fat toy" as the greeting.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Feb. 18, 1935.

Erection of street signs throughout city and the numbering of houses in more uniform manner, both of which had been recommended to the city by City Engineer W. C. Stattel for several years, was endorsed by C. of C. public affairs committee.

Five per cent salary and wage increases for all appointive city employes were voted by city council in special session.

Lizzie De Cab Lindsay, 85, retired druggist, died.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Garrison, who recently moved to Ashland, were honored at a party given at St. Matthew's Lutheran church here.

The Chap Who Always Argues.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

You've met him—
It may not be a very noisy argument—
It may only be a few words—
Or a mean look—
Or a snooty snort—
Or a slight reddening of the ears—
But it's an argument, just the same.
And it serves as a warning and protest—
That whatever you're for he's against.

You may make the most casual statement—
Like "It's a fine day"—
Or the simplest suggestion, such as:
"Hadn't you better 'phone to see if he's in?"
Doesn't matter how obvious or simple your remark.
He'll deny it's a nice day—
He'll refuse to 'phone ahead.
And maintain that only saps 'phone ahead.
And the funny part of it is—
Until you mentioned it, he thought it was a grand day.
And he had every intention of 'phoning ahead.
But since you beat him to it,
He had to take the opposite side.

Now, why are people like that?
Is it because they're naturally cussed?
Or so stuck on themselves that they simply must Put in their two cents, regardless?

Not entirely.
Being human, they are, of course, cussed.
And conceited—all of us are.
But there is a deeper reason for their argument
Than cussedness or conceit.
They argue because they're afraid.
There's a secret fear always gnawing at them.
The fear that they're not as impressive
And dominating and convincing as other people, and that other people are on to it.
And are going to laugh at them,
Or put something over on them.

And so, being constantly afraid,
And as self-conscious as a pup with his first flea,
They're always on the aggressive—
Always trying to beat you to the clinch—
Always trying to prove their superiority to you,
And, even more particularly, to themselves.
Why do such people always put up an argument?
That's why.

And I've heard it said
That if you get past that fear,
Make them feel that they needn't defend themselves.
Make them see that you respect and admire them,
And even, more important, that you need them,
That you can cure them of arguing.

Which, I admit, sounds grand.
And if you've got a noble soul and a lot of time
I hope you'll try it.
But I might as well peacefully add
That for quite a few years
I've been trying it myself
On a bunch of ornery humans
And it hasn't dented 'em yet.
But maybe you'll be luckier.

As You Speak

By MARY J. SENEFF

The thoughts you have, the words you speak,
Reveal your heart and mind;
You of pure heart need never fear
For yours will be the kind—
The kind that's gentle, wholesome true.
No evil you will speak.
Just kindly thoughts and words express;
Man's goodness you will seek.
The good in you, will help you see
The best that's in mankind;
As you speak, so is your heart—
Your heart, your soul, your mind.

Ohio Anecdotes

Wayne Was Second Choice.

Ohio might have honored "Lighthorse" Harry Lee as the conqueror of the Northwest Territory instead of General "Mad Anthony" Wayne had President Washington made his selection of generals to fight Ohio Indians without regard for military rank.

General Wayne, however, held a higher commission and was the choice. Lee, who captained a Virginia cavalry in the Revolution at 20, was a favorite of Washington, partly because of Lee's military brilliance. Lee's mother, Lucy Grymes, it was reported, was a boyhood love of the president.

One of the Revolution's brilliant feats was engineered by Lee when his men captured 160 British at Paulus Hook, near New York City, with virtually no loss. Military strategists compare it with General Wayne's victory at Stony Point.

After the Revolution, Lee returned home in 1782 to marry a cousin, Matilda Lee, heiress of a Virginia fortune.

One-Minute Test.

1. What are the moon's perigee and apogee?
2. What is the tallest man-made structure in the world?
3. Who was the running mate of James M. Cox when he was a presidential nominee? In what year did they run.

Words of Wisdom.

It is only an error of judgment to make a mistake, but it argues an infirmity of character to adhere to it when discovered. The Chinese say, "The glory is not in never falling, but in rising every time you fall."—Boyce.

Hints On Etiquette.

It is not good manners to monopolize the conversation when in a party. Give the other members of the group a chance to air their views.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. The moon is said to be in perigee when it is nearest to the earth; in apogee when it is farthest from earth.
2. The Empire State building, in New York City.
3. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in 1920.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Here are some intimate episodes from the private lives of people you know:

This first one takes place in an actor's boarding house. A slim young man, looking rather depressed, shuffles up to the door and scans a card which says, 'Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontaine." He rings the bell.

"Come in."

In he goes, and they shake hands, for they have known one another for years. Their trails have crossed in many theater alleys and in dim late hour restaurants.

Lynn senses instinctively that something is wrong, and finally she goes over to the young man and says, "All right, let's have it. Are the gendarmes chasing you?"

"Of course," she says, giving him the money.

The name of that thin, nervous young man was—Noel Coward.

EPISODE NO. 2. This one has to do with money, too. Some times money makes you think of all those tales of extravagance that have come out of Hollywood. But Hollywood isn't the only place where producers sign checks at higher figures than are necessary.

There is London, for instance. A determined young woman with her business sense about her, is admitted to the office of a British theatrical magnate. He is anxious for this young star to play the lead in "Aren't We All." She faces him, determined not to sign for one cent less than $2,000 a week.

As she walks in the magnate begins talking. "I'm sorry, my dear," he tells her, "but we can't pay you more than $4,000 a week."

As she gasps he hurries on. "Well, if you take it like that, maybe we can make it $4,500."

So she takes it—like that. And her name is—Gertrude Lawrence.

EPISODE NO. 3. This also has to do with money. The scene is the office of the Playwrights Company, on Broadway. There is a play called "Key Largo" ready for production. Maxwell Anderson wrote it.

But they want a name character from the coast, a star, to carry the lead assignment. Paul Muni is that man. He has read the play and he likes it. They get around finally to talking salary.

"How much you want?" they ask him.

"Well," he says, "would $700 a week be too much?"

They look at him in astonishment. "We are going to pay you $2,500 a week."

Muni thinks this over for a moment. Then he smiled. "That's swell," he says, "but why don't you take the difference between $700 and $2,500 and go out and hire some good actors."

That's Muni. He knows a star is a star. He also knows that a good cast can help a star. He hasn't been on Broadway in years, and he didn't want the homecoming to fail.

Words of the Wise

Prefer a loss to a dishonest gain: the one brings pain at the moment, the other for all time.—Chilon

TODAY IN HISTORY

On February 19, 1878, there was granted to Thomas Alva Edison a patent for his invention, the phonograph.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—When Secretary Hull issued his statement that he had been working toward peace through neutral nations, it caused lifted eyebrows among neutral diplomats in Washington.

Gathering at a cocktail party that afternoon, a Swiss diplomat asked a Dutch diplomat:

"Were you the neutral nation Secretary Hull conferred with?"

"No. Were you?"

And this question, asked among the Belgians, Norwegians, Swedes, and other neutrals finally revealed that no neutral representative at the gathering had been approached by Secretary Hull.

Simultaneously word leaked from some of Mr. Hull's boys that he had not been consulted regarding the European peace pilgrimage of his under secretary, Sumner Welles, and that he was most irate about it. This story, widely published, gave such an impression that Welles was taking a mere pleasure trip, that Mr. Hull finally issued another statement last Wednesday covering the Welles situation.

Real fact is that there was some truth in all of the above, but not the whole truth. And the parts unpublished are the most significant.

Real Story.

IT WAS TRUE that Hull was taken aback by word that his under secretary was going to Europe to discuss peace, although this idea had been discussed in a very general way some time before.

Anyway, when Roosevelt announced at his press conference on Feb. 9 that he had decided to send Welles to Europe, Hull hurriedly threw together a statement which in effect made it clear that, as the boss of the state department, he was not being left out in the cold. The statement, issued the same day as the president's Welles announcement, was whipped into shape in about 15 minutes. It emphasized the American policy of discussing peace through the neutrals.

All this tended to befog the basic issue of peace, but on that basic issue, Mr. Hull was quite correct. Some extremely important conversations had taken place with the neutrals. Only the neutral diplomats didn't know about them, and also they were not held through the medium of the United States.

They were held through the Pope, acting in closest co-operation with Washington. And this is the foundation for the Welles trip.

For some weeks, Luigi Maglione, papal secretary of state, had been in touch with the neutral nations. And more recently he has also been in touch with the belligerents.

These conversations have revealed a not unpromising basis for peace. Just exactly how promising it is, will be partly for Welles to decide when he gets to Rome. So far there have been some indications that a statement might come from the Vatican, even going so far as to call a peace conference.

This, however, will be decided after Welles gets to Rome. The main goal of both the president and the pope is to get the belligerents talking before the spring drive starts and war passions deepen.

Capital Chaff.

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT officials are probing to see whether there is another Harlan county labor intimidation case in Aberdeen, Wash., where Mrs. Richard Law, wife of a leader of the International Woodworkers of America, was found murdered. Various reports of vigilante tactics against labor have come from this Puget Sound section. . . . The man who will fill the key post of U. S. attorney in southern Louisiana (if District Attorney Rene Viosca is made a judge) is Richard Montgomery, jr., a very competent youngster. . . . Willie Bioff, the Hollywood labor czar, was not the only one caught in the federal income tax net when his case was investigated. Also investigated were Twentieth Century-Fox movie moguls Joe Schenck, Darryl Zanuck and Bill Goetz. . . . Henry Morgenthau, impatient with Los Angeles proceedings regarding these three men, has ordered their case to New York.

A. F. of L. Fight.

THE STORY behind the near fist fight between Dan Tobin, head of the teamsters' union, and Big Bill Hutcheson, boss of the carpenters, at the Miami meeting of the AFL executive committee is that both boys had been in training for it since the last AFL convention at Cincinnati.

At that time Hutcheson, bitter anti-New Deal Republican, was put into a vacancy on the executive committee created by the forced retirement of First Vice President Frank Duffy, and instead of going to the bottom of the list as 15th vice president, the usual procedure, Big Bill's pals swung a deal giving him Duffy's No. 1 spot at "First Vice President."

As such he ranks next to AFL President Bill Green and nine notches above Dan Tobin, staunchest New Deal supporter on the executive board. To be superseded in this highhanded manner, especially by the Republican conservative Hutcheson, so enraged Tobin that he threatened to resign in protest. He even considered taking his 350,000 teamsters—one of the strongest unions—out of the AFL.

With this as a backdrop it is easy to understand why at Miami Green's introduction of Big Bill Hutcheson as "First Vice President" was like waving a red flag in Tobin's face. He leaped to his feet protesting that Hutcheson had no right to the title and urged that it be voted on.

"You're playing Democratic politics," shouted Hutcheson.

"I'm not playing politics!" retorted Tobin. "This is the first time anybody ever got your seat without working his way up to it. I wouldn't be so proud of that if I were you."

"Well, I'm here whether you like it or not," barked Hutcheson.

"Well, I don't like it," stormed Tobin. Suddenly both men rushed at each other. Tobin removed his glasses. But before any serious blows were struck the two belligerents were parted. Fortunately for A. F. of L. harmony, the incident happened at a private session of the executive committee.

Old Man Winter

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ONE DAY lastweek I was busy in my study corner, when the oldest boy, aged nine, came running in. "Daddy, there's a man outside waiting for you to see him."

"Bring him in," said I: "Get him to sit down by the fire and wait a little."

A mischievous smile flitted over the round face.

"He'll wait down by the barn, but he's pretty cold I guess—you'd better come right away."

I laid aside my work and went along. The day was warmer. The eaves dripped. Soft snow upon the lawn slope bore imprints of children's feet and in places, rolling balls of snow had taken up everything in their path and left streaks of bare brown grass. Then I stopped and stared in mock surprise.

Over by the barn a tall white figure loomed, an eight-foot giant, with a green stocking cap atilt upon his head and a faded green scarf tied about his throat. A row of big black buttons marked his front. His arms were folded masterfully across his chest and a corncob pipe tilted upward at a fetching angle.

"Well, well, well! If it isn't Old Man Winter himself!" I ejaculated, as I tipped my hat with a great flourish. Then I shielded myself behind the snow man's rotund body while the children laughed and shouted and gathered up soft snow to throw at both of us. We played vigorously for half an hour, with snow flying fast and furiously.

All day he stood there, stolid, unmoved and cold. Evening brought a change of temperature, and morning a fog. By the end of the second day his jauntiness had vanished. A flying snowball first carried away his pipe. Alas, he could not be himself without it! His shoulders slumped. He looked aged. His head bent toward his chest. Finally a push from an unsympathetic youngster sent his head rolling.

Today there is only a flat patch of snow upon the lawn. About its edges the hens peck occasional green grass blades. The wind is warm. A song sparrow's note came from the hill this morning.

It is too soon to believe that winter is really gone, yet as I stand on the hill and sniff the odors of melting snow and mossy mould, as I hear the murmur of the gurgling spring, now twice its size, as I feel the earth give softly beneath my feet, I think, even if winter comes again—"can spring be far behind?"

LONG MACHINE FACES TEST IN TUESDAY VOTE

(By Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS—Louisiana voters decide next Tuesday whether organized survivors of the 12-year-old Huey Long dynasty remain in power.

In the state's second gubernatorial primary this year that is the only issue. The first primary campaign started with masquerades and tomato-slinging; the second with a feverish session of the legislature.

In five days the lawmakers assembled by Gov. Earl K. Long, one of the surviving candidates, tore down some of the legal structure of the old Huey Long dictatorship, appropriated $1,000,000 for children's school lunches, another million for social services—but neglected to specify where the money was to be found.

Long polled 225,739 votes in the Jan. 16 primary. His runnerup and now his only opponent was the reform candidate with the widest backing, Sam Jones, Lake Charles attorney and comparative newcomer to politics, who received 154,719 ballots.

The days of special sessions which whipped out unread bills sixty an hour are over. An anti-administration state treasurer is in already. A vehemently anti-administration attorney-general candidate was high man in the first primary.

The dictatorship is b r o k e n, Louisiana already has decided that. But the machine, reinforced by its vassal, the old regular political organization of New Orleans, maestri's special preserve, is still strong. It is the machine which receives its supreme test Tuesday.

Although convict parades are out, the second campaign has not been without its excitement and name-calling. Jones has declared his life was threatened and the superintendent of state police sees, with ironic comment, that he is guarded at every meeting.

Between the camps, in New Orleans, sit two federal grand juries, the one which showered indictments on the administration ranks last year and a new one which through an assistant U. S. attorney-general has invited complaints of election irregularities.

OFFICE OPEN

Farmers Can Apply For Crop And Feed Loans.

Richland county farmers seeking federal emergency crop and feed loans may file their applications at the county farm bureau office in Mansfield, it was announced today.

The loans will be made only to farmers who have little operating cash and who cannot obtain loans from any other source. The farmer must use the loan for preparing and cultivating his 1940 crop or in purchasing or producing feed for his livestock.

Borrowers must give a first lien on their crop or livestock as security for the loans.

OLD OAK FALLS

GREEN HIGHWAYS

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — California highway engineers have found that members of the genus Mesembryanthemum do something to the eyes—and with such a name they could be expected to do anything. But the Mesembryanthemums, ice plants which are commonly planted along highways, have recently been set in center strips of divided roads. Engineers have found that their green foliage sets off to better advantage the curbing of the center strips and acts as a sort of tonic to the eyes of tired drivers.

KILL SNAKES

LONDON—(INS)—Rats are now killing off the remainder of the London Zoo's snake colony. On the outbreak of war the Zoo authorities destroyed all poisonous snakes and insects. The rats are now attacking the small reptiles which are kept outdoors. Dogs, cats and keepers are striving in vain to prevent this destruction.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Children naturally are interested in books about George Washington with his birthday this month. For this reason two such books are displayed in the children's room this week. The first is a story of the Revolutionary war and of the men in Washington's army. The second is a life of Washington written especially for junior and senior high school readers.

RIFLES FOR WASHINGTON, by Elsie Singmaster—Davie McKail secretly followed his uncle when he went to join Washington's army in the First Regiment from Pennsylvania. He was only 16 years old but when he was discovered he was too far from home to send back alone. He remained until after he fired his musket the first time. The experiences of the soldiers in the important campaigns are described so clearly that a reader can scarcely lay the book aside, after having started it.

LEADER BY DESTINY, by Jeanette Eaton -- Anyone who knows only the cherry tree incident of Washington's boyhood will be surprised how much more is known of the way in which young George started on his path to fame. It is interesting to note how he changed from a tory to a Revolutionist and to know how he became the important leader of the new nation.

NO WILD LIFE

Tch! Tch! Alaskans Can't Have Pet Wolves Anymore.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska—(AP)—Zoos and circuses are unlawful in Fairbanks under a recently-enacted ordinance.

The measure prohibits bringing into the city or harboring as "a pet, captive or in any other manner, any bear, bob-cat, coyote, lynx, wolf, or any other wild, live animal of like nature." It supplants an old ordinance which prohibited moose walking on the sidewalks, and was designed to end the growing fad of keeping young wolves and other predators as pets.

Bullets of stone were in use in 1514. Iron ones were used in 1550.

COUGHING COLDS

3 Out of 5 Mothers Use This Home-Proved Treatment

You are right to worry when a cold strikes your family. You should take steps, at once, to relieve the misery and suffering. But you want to be sure that what you do is really helpful. You don't want to take needless risks.

Now here is what most mothers do. They use Vicks VapoRub. Since 1895 Vicks and their doctors have studied ways to treat the distressing symptoms of colds. Today three out of five mothers are benefiting by this forty-four-year-study of colds when they use VapoRub and let its amazing poultice-vapor action go to work. PROFIT BY THEIR EXPERIENCE. Do this. If it's a coughing cold, melt a spoonful of VapoRub in a pan of boiling water, and breathe in the soothing, medicated vapors. Then massage Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest, and back and go to bed.

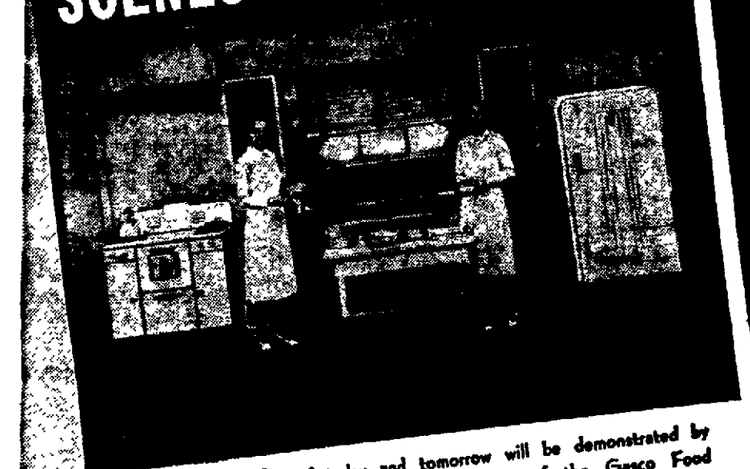
PREVIEW
SCENES FROM THE 1940 GASCO FOOD INSTITUTE



Glorified foods will be mirrored in a frame following each days program emphasizing the modern trend toward greater attractiveness in food servings.

Cooking modes of today and tomorrow will be demonstrated by experienced lecturers throughout the programs of the Gasco Food Institute.

Entertaining drama enlivens the programs of the Food Institute throughout making them extremely interesting as well as informative.

Kitchen comedy humorously points out the common eat-and-run tendency among some modern families, illustrates how it can be avoided.

These Thrills — and Many More Await You at the Outstanding Food Event of the Year

There's never a dull moment in the three exciting days of Gasco Food Institute programs as these preview scenes indicate. You'll be entertained with comedy and drama — you'll be informed with lectures and demonstrations. Every phase of food preparation will be presented in programs packed full of new ideas. You'll not want to miss a moment of the three sessions.

Remember the dates, Wednesday, February 21, Thursday, February 22 and Friday, February 23. Sessions begin at 9:15 o'clock each morning in the Ohio Theater. Plan now to attend each day. Watch The News-Journal for further announcements.

WE WANT YOU TO FEEL AT HOME
wherever good beer is sold

The Brewing Industry realizes that decent, respectable people prefer to patronize decent, inviting places.

And we agree with them.

That is why we are taking action—in cooperation with law enforcement authorities—to "clean-up or close-up" beer retail establishments that disobey the law or permit anti-social conditions.

To do this we have instituted a new self-regulation plan now in operation in a few states and being extended as rapidly as possible.

We think you will be interested in knowing something about this program. May we tell you about it in an interesting free booklet?

MONETTA V. HERSHEY WEDDED HERE SUNDAY

Becomes Bride of John B. Calhoun At Grace Gospel Church In Early Morning Ceremony; At Home On Linden Road.

AN ATTRACTIVE double ring ceremony was performed at 8:30 a. m. yesterday at the Grace Gospel church for Miss Monetta V. Hershey and John B. Calhoun. The couple stood before the altar which was decorated with palms and rose and blue gladioli which matched the bride's and her attendant's costumes. The seven-branch candelabra completed the setting.

Miss Hershey, daughter of Mrs. Rose Hershey, 203 East Third street, was attired in a street-length costume of heaven blue sheer crepe with an embroidered bolero jacket and matching hat. Her gloves and shoes were of navy, and the bride wore an orchid corsage. Her only jewelry was a gold cross on a matching chain.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Harry J. Wolfe, as matron of honor. Mrs. Wolfe was attired in a dusty rose sheer crepe dress with bolero jacket and tiny button trim, matching hat and black gloves and shoes. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses and sweet peas.

Rev. Henry E. Tropf, pastor, officiated for the ceremony, and Mrs. Louise Reynolds played traditional nuptial music at the piano. Her numbers were "Liebestraum" by Liszt, "To An Evening Star" and "Fairest Lord Jesus" and "The Lord Is My Shepherd" during the ceremony in addition to the wedding marches.

Mrs. Hershey appeared at her daughter's wedding attired in a simple black costume with a corsage of gardenias, while the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. John Benninghof appeared in a pink dress with a gardenia corsage.

For the brief wedding trip Mrs. Calhoun wore a black outfit. Upon their return to the city Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun will be at home on South Linden road.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun were graduated from the Mansfield Senior high school, and he attended Ashland college. He is now employed at the Ohio Brass company. The former Miss Hershey is employed at the Red Cross office in the Bowers building.

Hold Nomination Of Club Officers, Meet At Crestline

New officers were nominated Saturday when members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Railway Mail association met at the Blue Lantern tea room in Crestline for the regular monthly meeting. Luncheon was served to 13 members at a long table decorated with patriotic appointments.

A contest was conducted and Mrs. E. G. Giffin was awarded the prize. Hostesses were Mrs. C. B. Harmon, Mrs. W. S. Marshall, Mrs. F. E. Speelman, and Mrs. W. G. Lambert, all of Crestline.

The place for the next meeting was not announced but it will be held March 16. Hostesses are Mrs. P. F. Smith. Mrs. L. S. Wilson, Mrs. Carl Miller and Mrs. E. A. Reed, all of Mansfield.

Brewster Girl Bride Of George De Yarmon

Announcement was made here today of the marriage of the former Miss Jerry Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Baker, Brewster, to George DeYarmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. DeYarmon, 44 Helen avenue. Both were students at Ohio university at Athens and were married at Greenup, Ky. on Jan. 16 at the Methodist parsonage.

Miss Helen Haskins, a sorority sister of the bride's, who is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta, accompanied the pair. Miss Baker attended the Brewster high school.

Mr. DeYarmon, who was a member of Phi Mu Alpha, musical fraternity, was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school, is now associated with the Merchants and Manufacturers Insurance company. Mr. and Mrs. DeYarmon are living at the Helen avenue address.

Horchlers Entertain Friends With Bridge

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Horchler, jr., entertained members of the Puenta club Saturday evening at their home on the Lexington avenue road. Bridge was the diversion at three tables, with prizes going to Mr. and Mrs. George Bergman.

ENCLOSE PORCH.

Many home owners are discovering the convenience of enclosed porches. An open porch can be quickly and economically enclosed with structural insulating board that builds the walls and makes them weatherproof at the same time. Once closed-in, the porch can be used as an auxiliary sitting room, playroom for the children, and hot weather dining room.

If your leather handbag looks little the worse for wear, freshen it by rubbing it thoroughly with 2 tablespoons white petroleum jelly and ½ teaspoon glycerine. After 2 hours rub well with a soft cloth to polish the bag.

Afternoon Service For Miss Hart At Gospel Center

Attired in a dress of white starched net with a white chantilly lace jacket Miss Marjorie Hart came up the aisle of the Gospel Center on the arm of her father, John Hart, yesterday at 2 p. m. to become the bride of David W. Parrett. The bride's gown was simply made with the detail in the round collared and leg of mutton sleeved jacket. Her veil was also of lace made in the halo style and falling to the fingertip. Her flowers were carnations, gardenias and sweet peas.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mildred Iona Hart, who wore a blush rose starched net dress with chantilly lace trim at the square neckline and in bands inserted in the skirt. She wore a headpiece of flowers in powder blue and rose with streamers extending to her waist. Her only ornament was a gold necklace.

The father of the bridegroom, Rev. Samuel R. Parrett, officiated before the altar which was decorated with banked palms and two seven-branch candelabra.

Music included piano selections by Lewis Stambaugh. His numbers were "Because" and "I Love You Truly." Miss Mildred Hart, played the violin selections "Romance" and "L'Amour Toujours L'Amour."

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Hart was attired in black with matching accessories, and wore a corsage of roses and sweet peas. Mrs. Parrett appeared in a rose dress with matching accessories and a similar corsage. A reception followed at the Hart home.

Mr. Parrett lived with his parents at 168 Lexington avenue. He is employed at the Barnes Manufacturing company. Mr. and Mrs. Parrett are making their home at 278 Park avenue east after Wednesday.

SPECIAL SIZES.

Manufacturers report a steady increase in the demand for sleeping equipment in special sizes. The greatest demand has been from tall persons who want longer than standard springs and mattresses so that they may stretch out to their full length. The standard mattress is six feet, three inches long. Sleep authorities recommend that the mattress be five inches longer than the sleeper.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

February 19, 1940.

Lucy, dear:

Marianne

Just as we have nice weather for three days running, and think perhaps spring is on its way, we're greeted with a blizzard like the one we had yesterday, and fair weather seems still farther away than ever. . . . But then it's bound to let up some time, so until then, I guess we'll just have to live in hope.

* * * * *

The most exciting news of the day is the engagement announcement of Robert Kelley and Fifi R. D'Aray. . . . Bob is employed by the Westinghouse in Boston, Mass., and Fifi's home is in Woonsocket, R. I. . . . Her mother, Mrs. Arthur D'Aray, announced the engagement at an informal family gathering recently. . . . Fifi visited here with Bob and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Kelley at Christmas-time, and since you missed her then, Lucy, you must try to see her the next time she comes out for a stay.

* * * * *

THIS week will be a busy one for Charles Schlegel down at Ohio State university. . . . He's been chosen to do several solo dances with the men's chorus in a musical show, which is being presented by the Scarlet Masque club at the school this Friday and Saturday evenings. . . . Charles (who was a dance pupil of the late Marty Hogan) also appeared on the stage of Lowe's Ohio theater in Columbus last Friday night. . . . Charles is a freshman at the university and a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. . . . His parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Schlegel, are planning to drive down for the show Saturday night.

* * * * *

Lots of lucky folks left for winter vacations this past week-end, and there's no use denying that they make the rest of us pretty envious, eh, Lucy? Mrs. Myrtle Aungst and her son, Emerson McWilliams, left Saturday to drive to California—they'll visit in Los Angeles and San Diego for the next eight weeks.

* * * * *

MR. AND Mrs. A. J. McHugh are on their way to Florida now . . . They left yesterday for Miami, where they'll be guests at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Britton.

* * * * *

* * * * *

MARTHA GIFFIN was in town over the week-end—having left her teaching duties in Lebanon long enough to pay her folks, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Giffin, a short visit. . . . Incidentally, Martha's sister, Naomi, was initiated into membership of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority Saturday at Miami university in Oxford—she's a sophomore there this year.

* * * * *

The Hotel Portage in Akron was the scene of Family Home Products company convention Friday and Saturday, and quite a large group of residents from Mansfield motored over to attend. . . . Mr. and Mrs. George A. Levy, Mrs. E. F. Rein, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Downs, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barker were among those present.

* * * * *

NOW how about some news from you, Lucy? Write soon, and I'll send you an answer next Monday.

Lovingly,

Marianne

Recent Bride

Seventh Birthday Occasion For Party

Sheryl Lynn Holmes was honored with a birthday party Saturday, given by her mother, Mrs. Jack Holmes, at her home on South Adams street. Games and contests were played during the afternoon, with prizes going to Linda Skelton, Jeanette Bly and Joy McCoy.

Valentine appointments decorated the table when refreshments were served, and Sheryl Lynn received many gifts in honor of her seventh birthday. In addition to those already mentioned, guests were: Carol Lee Blust, Donna Watt, Daisy and Joyce Doyle, Marlene Sweval, Peggy Ann Mattox, Jackie, Ardell and Mabel Holmes.

NATURALIST TO TALK BFORE FEDERATION

Final Lecture In Series To Be Given March 5; Two Luncheon Bridge Parties, Annual Meeting Wind Up Season.

DR. JAMES MARSHALL, noted Australian naturalist, will be the final speaker in the winter series of morning lectures sponsored by the Mansfield Federation of Women. According to schedule Dr. Marshall will talk on "Modern Australia" at the Ohio theater at 11 a. m. March 5. Luncheon will be served at the Women's Club later, with reservations being accepted through March 4.

The speaker, who makes his home in Sydney, was born in the famous Kangaroo Valley where he had ample opportunity for studying wild life and primitive cultures. As a minister and student of nature Dr. Marshall is well-informed about his native land, but in addition he has made a careful study of world social and economic trends.

Dr. Marshall is particularly well-informed on the social and economic life of Australia, and is now deeply engrossed in watching the progress of our own "New Deal" which is similar to the economic pattern followed in his native land. He speaks on this subject in a humorous and witty manner.

Following this meeting the concluding events on the Federation program are a luncheon bridge March 28, a tea and the annual meeting April 2 and another luncheon bridge on April 18.

Fetes Mrs. W. K. Mackey At Evening Bridge

In honor of Mrs. William K. Mackey, Columbus, who resided in Mansfield until a year ago, Mrs. Arthur L. Glattke opened her home at the Ohio State Reformatory for a dessert-bridge party. The dessert course was served at two tables centered with dark pink sweet peas and decorated with Valentine appointments.

The Valentine theme was carried out in the other decorations, and lavender and white stocks were used throughout the house. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Paul A. Williams, Mrs. E. D. Gibson and the honored guest.

CELEBRATE.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett, Fourth avenue, was the scene of a party Saturday evening at which seven birthdays were celebrated. Luncheon was served at the close of a social evening.

PLAN TEA.

Members of Circle One of the First Methodist church will entertain tomorrow afternoon at 2 p. m. with an old-fashioned tea and program. Costumes, some more than 100 years old, will be worn by the members in charge.

MEET TOMORROW.

Women members of the Singers club will meet tomorrow evening at the Y. M. C. A. promptly at 7:45 p. m. for rehearsal. The men will begin rehearsal at the usual time of 8:15 p. m.

HOUSE-WARMING.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Ross, Wyandotte avenue, were surprised by a group of 32 friends Saturday night with a house-warming party. Cards, music and dancing were the diversions of the evening, and a buffet luncheon was served. Gifts were presented to Mrs. Ross by the group.

Open Meeting Set For March 12 By Mansfield Branch

Differing considerably from the routine type of program sponsored by the American Association of University Women will be the appearance here March 12 of Dr. Mary B. Harris at the Mansfield Senior high school. This will be the first open meeting sponsored by the Mansfield branch in several seasons. Dr. Harris, superintendent of the Federal Industrial Institution for Women at Alderson, Va., will speak at 8 p. m.

During her career as superintendent of the institution Dr. Harris has sent 5,000 women back into normal life, and of that number less than 3 per cent have broken faith. Dr. Harris is the author of the well-known book, "I Knew Them In Prison."

The speaker has had a wide background of training in prison work in New York and New Jersey, and has served in the Alderson institution since 1925.

It is expected that Dr. Harris will speak on her prison experiences when she comes to the city next month. Dinner will not precede this meeting as has been customary with branch meetings. Members of group eight will serve as hostesses for the lecture.

SURPRISED.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Callender, Woodville road, were surprised in celebration of Mrs. Callender's birthday yesterday when a group of 12 relatives gathered at her home for a noon covered-dish dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Darling, Loudonville, presented Mrs. Callender with a cake, and the group gave her a number of birthday gifts.

PLAY GAMES.

Members of the Friendly Eight five hundred club will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Terman, 387 West Third street, March 1, it was announced at a recent meeting with the Misses Lenora and Anna Horn, 179 Lexington avenue. Prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Peat and Mr. and Mrs. Gust Hoffman, guests of the club.

How To Relieve Bronchitis
Bronchitis, acute or chronic, is an inflammatory condition of the mucous membranes lining the bronchial tubes. Creomulsion goes right to the seat of the trouble to loosen germ laden phlegm, increase secretion and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding that you are to like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.
